Another Effort To Agree

Indochina Peace Talk Begins 16th Secret Session on Proposed Armistice Supervision

GENEVA (AP)—The Indochina peace conference made another effort today to break its deadlock on the issue of how a proposed Indochina cease-fire should be supervised.

The nine-party parley went into its 16th secret session, the last one planned before a long weekend recess to be followed by a semi-public debate next Tuesday.

High-level military representatives of the two Indochina commands also met in secret this afternoon on the problem of defining assembly zones for the regrouping of the rival armies after a cease-fire.

There was no immediate explanation of the decision to hold a nonrestricted session Tuesday, but it was known Western delegates were fed up with what they labeled propaganda "tirades" by some of the Communists. One Western source said Pham Van Dong, vice premier of the Communist-led Vietminh, was the worst offender.

The informant said Van Dong attacked the French so violently yesterday that France's Foreign Minister Georges Bidault reserved the right to reply this afternoon with a lecture on the manners delegates should observe in session.

The idea behind the secret sessions was to sidetrack Communist propaganda speeches and to speed negotiations by sticking to concrete observations on the question before the conference. However, Western delegation sources said the Reds had not changed their tactics.

Tuesday's meeting, though not open to press or public, will differ from the secret sessions in that each delegation will be permitted to hold news conferences afterwards and give a full account of the proceedings, including texts of speeches.

The deadlock on the policing of a cease-fire seemed as hopeless as ever. The Communists gave ground slightly yesterday, agreeing with the West that the proposed neutral nations supervisory commission should deal with all phases of the armistice. Previously the Reds had demanded the commission be confined to regulating the import of arms and troops into Indochina.

But both sides still disagreed completely on composition of the commission. (No Communist nations, the West insisted; half the commission Communist, the Reds replied). Two new difficulties arose.

Airman Creates Excitement, Gets Shot At by Cop

There were some exciting moments following the hearing of a window crashing in back of the Davis Paint Co., 112 East Third, about 10:10 p.m. Thursday. Police Officer A. E. Thomas was watching an intoxicated man in the alley a short distance down the alley when he heard the window breaking.

Thomas' attention was distracted from the man under surveillance to the sound of the noise. The man being watched apparently knew about the incident, and Thomas called out "halt," and suddenly a second man dashed across the alley, jumped a retaining wall in back of the Bothwell Hotel parking lot.

Seeing the man fired his pistol at him as he dashed among the cars on the parking lot. The man then raced eastward, around the front of the Chamber of Commerce office, and disappeared. The officer then went to the back of the Davis Paint Co. and found a window smashed.

Shortly before 4 a.m. Friday, a youth giving his name as Jack F. Leslie, 18, Sedalia Air Force Base, was picked up at Broadway and Ohio by Officers Paxton, Simmons and Thomas, after Thomas identified him as the youth who had eluded him earlier in the night.

At police headquarters, Leslie told the officers he had gone in the alley because he was sick and fell against the window, breaking it. It was then he heard the officer call to him and he became scared and ran. He said when the gun was heard he "really did get excited and really ran."

Leslie left $5 with the police to pay for the damaged window. He was released to go to the base.

More Like June

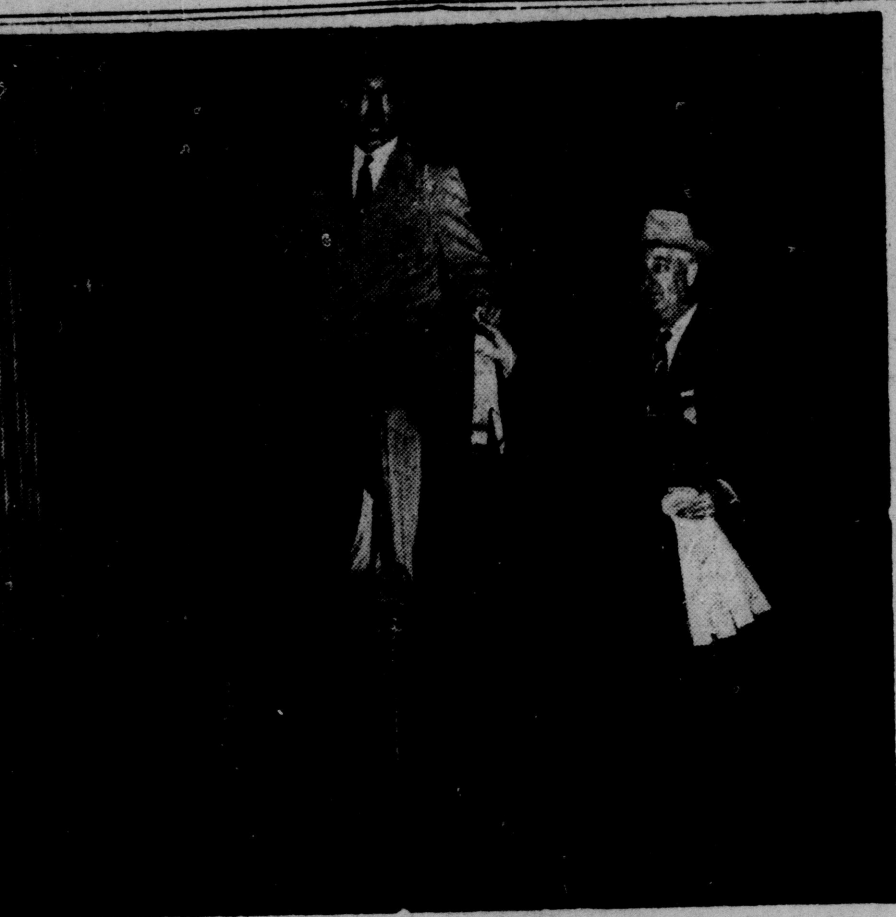

June was more like itself today and less like January. Maybe spring will arrive in time for an exit as summer arrives later this month.

Fair and warmer tonight and Saturday. Low tonight in the mid-50s. High Saturday in the upper 70s.

The temperature at 7 a. m. was 46; 68 at 1 p.m., and 78 at 2 p. m.

One year ago today here high 91, low 59; two years ago 89, 64, rainfall .43 inch; three years ago 70, 48.

Easter Knight Adds to Laurels By Winning in Horse Show

American Legion Event, Being Held in Fair's Coliseum, Will Close With Tonight's Classes That Will Take 100 Horses Into the Arena

Easter Knight, one of the finest of five-gaited show horses, continued its winning ways Thursday night when it was tied first in the five-gaited stallion or gelding class in the American Legion Horse Show at the State Fair grounds. Easter Knight, owned by Mrs. Gold Ilgenfritz, Sedalia, was shown by Scott Higgins of LaMonte.

The second annual Horse Show is being sponsored by the Pettis County Post, No. 16, American Legion, in the fair's coliseum. The final classes will be held at 7:30 p. m. Friday.

Mrs. Ilgenfritz also scored another win when Breath of Heaven, shown by Mrs. Ilgenfritz, won the fine harness open class.

Higgins scored a first with his Night Flyer in the junior five-gaited class. He won a second with Eastern Vanity Fair in the five-gaited mare class.

Twenter's entry was shown by John Self and Jolly's by Hugh Hartley. Rex, owned and shown by Clay Brown, took first in the Western pleasure class and Light-nings, owned and shown by Miss Martha Putnam, was tied for third in the class.

Others of the club who won were: King Lee, owned by E. F. Strickler and shown by Robert Eoff, placed third in the junior five-gaited; Moonlight Mystery, owned and shown by Jenkins-Greer Motor Co., shown by Hartley, second in the walking mare class, and Merry Maid Grey, owned and shown by Roy Burkholder, tied third in the class.

All classes were well filled with the exception of the roadster division in which only one entry was shown, six others being drawn.

Ten classes are to be shown Friday night: children's equitation, English pleasure, three-gaited stake, ladies' five-gaited stake, roadster stake, fine harness stake, walking horse stake and stock horses.

Sedalia, visited by winter temperature of 52 degrees, had more football weather than for a horse show, although the event was held in the large coliseum. As a result, it was one of the smallest crowds ever to attend a horse show in Sedalia, but the show itself was one of the best held in the local arena.

Officials of the show are: Fritz Hockaday, Peculiar, the judge; John T. Stulliff, Huntsville, ringmaster; Ray Holter, Independence, the announcer.

State Senator Opposes Lake Geneva Academy

LAKE GENEVA, Wis. (AP)—A state senator and a town chairman want no part of having an Air Force Academy established here.

They voiced their opposition after this area was announced yesterday as one of the three locations from which the academy site will be picked.

Mayor Ralph Williams of Lake Geneva greeted the report with approval but State Senator William Trinke declared, "It would be a terrible thing to happen." And Franklin Walsh, board chairman of Lynn Township, in which the academy would be located, added his opposition.

Trinke, who holds large real estate tracts in this resort area, said the site of the academy would be taken off Lynn Township tax rolls and would "ruin the township."

He said value of adjoining property would be depreciated and the only ones to benefit would be drug store and tavern operators.

"This would never be a resort area again," he said. "Why don't they go where the land is cheap and the people want the academy?"

Boy Scout Camporee Opens Today

Operation X-4 Will Be Highlight; Sunday Picnic and Ceremony

The annual Boy Scout camporee opened today at the Girl Scout camp southwest of Sedalia, and will continue through Sunday, with a finale being the court of honor, beginning at 2:15.

All Sedalia and Pettis County Boy Scout troops and Explorer Posts will participate in the event. With its theme based on conservation, the scouts are in for good training, as well as a barrel of fun. Dick Snow is the chief of the camp with the camporee director being Abe Silverman.

Michael Wolfel and Melvin Sylvester are the health directors, while Oscar DeWolf and Jack Delph are the camporee scribes.

One of the chief events of the camporee will be Operation "X-4," an adventure into the unknown. Paul Anthes Jr. will direct the activities. Not only does this provide fun and enjoyment for the boys, but it is also an excellent means of training leaders for tomorrow. The idea of "X-4" is to give the boys problems in camping, cooking, woodlore, compass navigation and leadership. This type of activity has been carried on for a number of years at the camp, and each year it becomes more successful.

For Friday the schedule is as follows: 1:30, camp opened; 6:00, supper; 7:30, official camporee opening; 7:15, retreat; 8:00, campfire (C. A. Phillips and Joe Furell, chairman); 9:30, call to quarters; 9:45, Taps (Bobby Heuerman official bugler); 9:50 orientation.

The chief project Saturday is the successful completion of Operation X-4.

On Sunday the scouts will pursue the following schedule: 6:30, first call; 7:00, breakfast; 7:30, uniform inspection and flag raising; 8:45, church services (each troop provides transportation to individual churches); 1:45, band concert; 2:15, court of honor (Cline Cain, chairman); 3:30 retreat.

Several outstanding awards will be made at the court of honor. First will be the camporee awards, which will go to the troops according to their composite patrol and troop rating on operation "X-4" and conduct through the entire camp period. Advancement awards will be given at this time, with the climax being the presentation of the four new Eagle Scouts from troop 151.

Naturally visitors are welcome at any time during the camporee, however, the most interesting activities will take place at the campfire programs on Friday and Saturday evenings, and the picnic luncheon and court-of-honor on Sunday, the luncheon being at 1 p. m.

As an added safety feature of the camp, no troop will be allowed alone at any time, without at least one adult supervisor.

The boys all go to Sacred Heart High School, where Joe graduated this year. Very active in their church work, they received the Ad Altare Dei award from the Catholic Church, the highest scouting award which it gives.

The boys feel that they are just now getting a good start in scouting. Joe admits that he will go to the Navy shortly, which should really be a continuation of his scout work, while the other boys will keep working hard at scouting up to the time they go into service.

Thailand Delay Likely

Delegations Appear Hopeful of Armistice in Indochina, End To Need for Patrol

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The U. N. Security Council seemed likely today to take its time with Thailand's request for a "peace patrol" of U. N. observers on her borders with embattled Indochina.

This was indicated by the opinions of influential delegations, expressed informally to reporters. Though Thailand, not on the council, wanted to hurry, others wanted to wait in the hope the Geneva conference will produce an Indochina cease-fire.

The council votes 10-1 yesterday to put the Thai request on its agenda for debate, then adjourned indefinitely for private consultations after Thailand's ambassador to Washington, Pote Sarasin, made his initial plea for action.

Only Soviet Representative Semyon K. Tsarapkin opposed immediate debate formally, contending discussion now would endanger chances of a cease-fire agreement at Geneva.

But actions and expressions by other delegates indicated the debate would not start speedily.

Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. of the United States, the council president for June, left by plane last night to attend D-Day anniversary ceremonies in France this weekend. He said he did not know when he would be back. His deputy, James J. Wadsworth, acts for Lodge in his absence.

The Arab member of the council, Charles A. Malik of Lebanon, told a reporter, "I don't think we should meet again until Geneva busts up or comes to a conclusion." He added he favors giving the talks in Switzerland two more weeks to show results.

Two other Western delegates favored a similar waiting period. British circles, without setting a time limit, took a like view and said a big council debate might endanger the Geneva talks.

Air Base On Permanent Status May Be Better Than Air Academy

Rep. Dewey Short Believes SAFB Will Be Larger

"The Sedalia Air Force Base, although eliminated as a site for the Air Academy, is almost certain to emerge from the long controversy as a much more important military installation."

This was the information sent late Friday by Jack Williams, a member of the Kansas City Star's staff in Washington, D. C.

Representative Dewey Short (R-Mo.), chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, said today he was sure Congress would approve the Sedalia installation for permanent-type construction as a two-wing base for B-47 bombers.

It was through Short's efforts that the House approved a military construction bill authorizing the changing of the status of Sedalia base from temporary to permanent in order to house two wings of the new jet medium bombers. The Senate committee started hearings on the bill today and Short expected approval.

President Eisenhower sent up a supplemental appropriations bill message today which would provide funds for the changeover at Sedalia.

"That means Sedalia will become a permanent-type military establishment and, mean, much to that part of Missouri," Short said. "It was done by getting authorization for the base increased in the military construction bill to care for the permanent type of construction there."

Short said he was disappointed at the action of the Air Academy site committee in its recommendations of three sites outside Missouri. They are Colorado Springs, Altamonte, Ill., and Lake Geneva, Wis.

"I am disappointed we couldn't get the academy in Missouri," Short said. "Naturally, I wanted to get it for the proposed site between Joplin, Mo., and Pittsburg, Kan., in my own district. It is an excellent site. Next, I was for Sedalia."

Members of Congress close to the military today said by their forecasts of three months ago that the academy finally would be determined for Colorado Springs. It is reported high Air Force officials have favored that site all along. Under the bill, Harold E. Talbott, air secretary, now must pick one of the three sites recommended. If there had been agreement on one site, he would have had to accept that.

There was no indication when Talbott would announce his decision. Construction of the academy still must be financed by Congress through an appropriation bill.

Permanent Base, With 8,000 Men, Would Have Payroll of $700,000-Plus Monthly

If the Sedalia Air Force Base is given permanent status, rather than the temporary rating it has at the present time, it may prove to be an even greater benefit to the community round-about than if the site had been chosen as the location for the Air Academy.

The Democrat today received from Air Force officials and others the estimates of the differences between having a permanent air base and in having the Air Academy.

If We Had Air Academy

If we had the Air Academy it would enroll about 1500 students, plus a faculty of a few hundred men and some civilians, though the number would probably not be great.

The 1500 students would draw $90 per month for a monthly payroll of about $135,000. Add an estimated $100,000 for the payroll of others and the total runs to $235,000. (All of this, of course, is merely an estimate.)

None of the students would have families here to pay rent, buy groceries, clothing, home furnishings, automobiles, or pay for the many services such as laundry, barbering, cleaning, auto service, etc.

The construction would amount to $140,000,000, it has been reported, but much of this would go to outside firms.

Naturally there would be many visitors in the area, coming to see the 1500 students, but it is doubtful that the number would be any larger than the number of friends and relatives who would come to see 8,000 men at the air base.

If We Had Permanent Base

If the Sedalia Air Force Base is made permanent it would demand enlargement of facilities to handle upwards of 8,000 men—an increase of more than 4,000 over the present facility.

Now the base has one wing and a base group. Under permanent status it probably would have two wings, a base group and an air group. With 8,000 men, the payroll would run to between $700,000 and $800,000 per month.

Almost all of these men would be of marriageable age and hundreds of them would have families and they would live off the base. They would be customers for every type of business in the community, and they would purchase their families' needs in this area.

Already more than $25,000,000 has been spent on the base and if it is made permanent this figure would have to grow as the facilities were increased to handle the vast enlarged staff of men.

At the present time a large number of airmen and their families are living in Sedalia.

Metropolitan Opera Rejects $150,000 Ilgenfritz Bequest

Although the Metropolitan Opera turned down Thursday a bequest of between $100,000 and $150,000 from ex-Sedalia Mc-Nair Ilgenfritz, it is not believed that this will interfere with a contest of the two living heirs, Ilgenfritz and Jean Ilgenfritz Demming, Kansas City, and Mrs. Dorothy Ilgenfritz Buckles, Sherman Oaks, Calif.

Their attorney, George Miller, could not be reached Friday for comment, but the nature of the will makes it probable that the contest proceedings will be carried through.

The finally hard-pressed Met rejected the money, which would have gone to it if it agreed to produce one of Ilgenfritz' two operas, "Phedre" and "Le Passant," with the statement that its "artistic integrity was not for sale."

It announced that its musical staff had examined copies of the opera scores and found them not up to Met standards.

Ilgenfritz was one of three sons of the late William D. Ilgenfritz, who founded the Ilgenfritz Hardware Co. in Sedalia. McNair was taken to St. Louis when he was a year old, then moved on to New York and Philadelphia, where he died April 12 of last year at the age of 66. His mother was a granddaughter of an early Missouri governor, Alexander McNair.

McNair's will was filed in Philadelphia on May 5 of last year, and in February of this year his two nieces filed for ancillary administration of his property in Pettis County. This was a preliminary step in contesting the will because it forced the will to be filed in Pettis County as well as in Philadelphia.

Mrs. Demming, which includes a one-third ownership of the Ilgenfritz Building, Third and Ohio, and an interest in the Montgomery Ward building.

Mrs. Gold Ilgenfritz, sister-in-law of McNair, had previously filed for partition sale of the Ilgenfritz Building. She has a one-third interest in the property.

Philadelphia attorneys then filed a copy of the will in Pettis.

Rose Show Open Until 9 Tonight

Beautiful Display At Little Theatre Has Many Varieties

"Queen of the Prairie" is the theme of the sixth annual Rose Show being held today at the Little Theatre, Smith-Cotton High School, and roses are cleverly presented around that theme in the exhibits on the stage.

In the center is a covered wagon painted by Maurice Hogan with separate red wheels and tongue. From the trunks, jugs and other things tied on the back of the wagon are long pieces of red roses. On either side are tables displaying unusual and attractive arrangements of various types of roses.

"This is what provokes you," said one of the women holding up a stem of nearly opened, but not quite open buds. "I thought

Six Persons Hurt as Car Goes In Ditch

Six persons suffered injuries about 1:45 a.m. Friday when a 1949 Pontiac coach in which they were riding crashed into a ditch just north of the junction of Highway 65 and 32nd Street and the old Clinton Road. Four youths from the Sedalia Air Force Base and two Sedalia girls were in the car.

A/3C George Boyd, 22, suffered a severe laceration of the left arm, fractures of the left wrist and one bone about halfway between the wrist and elbow, laceration on his chin, bruises and shock.

Janetta Buckley, 19, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Buckley, 401 East 26th, suffered bruises about her head and laceration next to the right eye, shock, and a chest injury.

Rosemary Goff, 15, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Heineman, 1210 South Missouri, suffered severe bruises and abrasions of the right cheek and bruises over the right eye.

A/B Charles Carver, 19, suffered bruises about both ankles and top of his feet and a bruise on the top of his head.

A/2C Richard Frey, 24, driver of the car, suffered bruises, abrasions and slight cuts on the right side of his face, plus a possible fracture of the right thumb.

A/3C Robert Cohen, 18, suffered bruise on his knees, but otherwise was unhurt.

The more severely hurt were taken to the Bothwell Hospital by a passing motorist.

Dr. Carl Siegel treated the injured.

A/2C Frey reported he was driving south on the blacktop road and they were all talking and he became confused, the car going off the left side of the highway. He pulled it back onto the pavement and it swerved to the right and nosed down into the ditch.

The front end of the car was demolished. The car was towed to the Chamberlin Garage on West Highway 50.

The State Highway Patrol made an investigation.

House-Senate Housing Bill Parley Begins

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower's housing bill, which won an overwhelming victory in the Senate, was ready today for a Senate-House conference in which public housing was the chief point in dispute.

The senators late yesterday shouted approval of the over-all housing legislation providing liberalized government-insured credit for home buyers, a seeped-up slum clearance program and new safeguards aimed at preventing any future abuses in government-aided housing.

By a 66-16 count—the only roll call vote on the complex measure—they also endorsed Eisenhower's controversial request for authority to build 35,000 new public housing units a year over the next four years.

The House version contains no such provision, public housing having been rejected there by a vote of 211-176.

Chairman Capehart (R-Ind.) of the Senate Banking Committee, announcing a Senate-House compromise bill would start a week from today, predicted in an interview that the joint group would okay at least some public housing and that the House would accept it.

Yesterday's Senate roll call followed an unusual behind-the-scenes maneuver in which Republican and Democratic leaders joined hands so that (A) GOP chiefs could get smashing approval for an administration request and (B) Southern Democrats could go on record without the segregation issue.

Sedalia's Attend Welfare Meeting At Jefferson City

Several people connected with welfare work in Pettis County attended the annual meeting, Thursday, in Jefferson City of the West Central Division of the Missouri Association for Social Welfare.

Those included H. E. Lindstrom, member of the association's board of directors, the Rev. Edward R. Sims, pastor of the Calvary Episcopal Church, who also took part in a panel discussion, Miss Roseanne Dugan, director of the Pettis County office of the Missouri State Division of Welfare, and approximately 15 others.

The meeting, held in the Ball Room of the Hotel Jefferson, featured a panel discussion on what the Supreme Court's decision on segregation in education means to Missouri.

In addition to Rev. Sims, panel members were: Circuit Judge Sam C. Blair; Hume Duval, St. Louis Globe-Democrat reporter; Chester T. Krause, editor of the Jefferson City Post-Tribune; David Brydon, a student at Junco College; and Arnold Thomas, a student at Lincoln University, both in Jefferson City; Mrs. C. C. Daniel and Mrs. Everett D. Sugarbaker, Jefferson City, housewives; and C. G. Hammond, Jefferson City businessman.

Discussion leader was Hubert Wheeler, commissioner of education for Missouri.

The Missouri Association for Social Welfare is a statewide, non-profit organization which was started more than 50 years ago for the purposes of protecting and advancing the health and welfare of Missouri citizens. It is divided into nine divisions.

During the business meeting Thursday Rev. Sims was elected to the board of directors.

OBITUARIES

Jay B. Dorsey

Jay B. Dorsey, 72, member of one of Pettis County's oldest families, a lifelong resident of Houstonia, died at 1:30 a. m. Friday at Bothwell Hospital. He had been ill for three weeks and in the hospital since Wednesday, May 26.

Mr. Dorsey, son of the late Andrew T. and Anna Nancy Dorsey, was born at Houstonia May 2, 1882. He attended elementary school at that place and later took a course at Central Business College in Sedalia. As a young man he worked in the Dorsey general store at Houstonia, later being a rural mail carrier.

At time of his death he had a recreational parlor in his home town, operating it in recent years.

In his youth he united with the Houstonia Christian, now the Community Church.

He was married Nov. 2, 1905 at La Monte to Miss Edith Wimer, they being parents of two children, Helen, who died in 1916, and Mrs. Mariana Wicker, wife of Russell Wicker, who survives as do: two grandchildren, Mrs. James Kreisel, 312 South Second, Sedalia, and Lou Wicker, Houstonia; a great-grandchild, Russell Kreisel, Sedalia; a brother, Ed. Dorsey, Marshall; a half-sister, Miss Dora Dorsey, Kansas City; and several nieces and nephews.

The body was taken to the Westbrook Funeral Home, Houstonia, to remain until time for funeral services at 2:30 p. m. Sunday at the Houstonia Community Church, the pastor, the Rev. Lowell Ellett, to officiate.

Burial will be in Houstonia Cemetery.

Thomas J. Williams Service

Funeral services for Thomas J. Williams, 78, retired farmer of the Green Ridge community, who died Wednesday morning, were held at 2 p. m. Friday at the Baptist Church in Green Ridge. The Rev. Ralph E. Hurd, pastor of the Epworth Methodist Church, officiated.

Mrs. Wilford Purchase and Mrs. Floyd Egbert sang "When They Ring Them Golden Bells," "Sunrise Tomorrow" and "God Be With You Till We Meet Again," accompanied by Mrs. E. J. Sims.

Palbearers were Dennis Brownfield, Wilford Calvert, Clarence Purchase, Ray Calvert, Rance Ray and Horace Stark.

Burial was in the Green Ridge Cemetery.

The body was at the Ewing Funeral Home until time for the service.

Ilgensfritz Will

County courts where it could be contested.

George Miller, attorney for the two nieces, said at that time that his clients intended to contest the will, which he said they believed "was probably the result of undue influence, and there is the question of mental competency."

"Our investigation," he said, "has revealed that the Metropolitan Opera Co., meeting the minimum compliance of the will, could do so at a cost of less than $5,000. The heirs think it peculiar that prior to the time of McNair Ilgenfritz' death, his music was considered not to have the slightest value, but that suddenly the Metropolitan Opera Co. seems to consider his works of good quality."

It was not known Friday, after the news of the Met's decision, whether it could have been influenced by the possibility of an extended court case.

The will itself makes it improbable that the contest will be dropped, since the money will now be offered to the Covent Opera Co. of London, under the same terms about producing either "Phedre" or "Le Passant."

The other main section of the will, aside from the bequest to the opera company, stipulates the bequest of $20,000 to Edward L. Powers, New York City, along with McNair's stocks and bonds, jewelry, a grand piano, some piano player rolls, his box tickets from the Metropolitan Opera, and other personal effects.

The section dealing with the bequest to the opera company states that if the Metropolitan should refuse it, it should next be offered to the Covent Opera Co. of London. If this firm should refuse it, too, it should be offered successively to the Grand Opera Nationale, Paris; the Opera Comique, Paris; the Monte Carlo Opera; the Theatre de la Monnaie, Brussels, Belgium; the Nice Opera, France; and once again the Metropolitan Opera, if it is by then under a different management.

If none of these opera companies accepts the money, it is to go to the Art Association of Newport, R. I., to build a memorial concert hall.

Smaller sections of the will provide money for publishing the scores of Ilgenfritz' unpublished compositions and for the advancement of the sum of $2,000 also to be offered to the Ball Theatre Co., New York City, or the Monte Carlo Ballet, whichever first agrees to produce his ballet "Burma."

Since the will does not stipulate that the money shall revert to either of his two living heirs, it is believed the proposed contest of the will will be carried on.

'Fire Bugs' Are Nabbed In Their Jail Cell

HODGENVILLE, Ky. (AP)—A couple of persistent "fire bugs" were caught yesterday—in their jail cell.

Jailer Levi Carter said Stanley Keith, 17, and Lewis Hall, 22, tried three times to set fire to the jail.

They ignited paper twice and, after all paper was removed from the cell, they ignited their mattresses. Each time the flames were put out without serious damage.

The prisoners were charged with attempting to burp property of another person.

Mac Called Meeting Fails To Get Quorum

WASHINGTON (AP)—A late-afternoon meeting of the Senate investigators subcommittee was canceled yesterday after none of the three Democratic members showed up.

The meeting had been called by Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.).

The New York Times said in a dispatch from Washington that the absence of the three minority members was a "Democratic boycott," but the senior Democrat on the subcommittee, Sen. McClellan (D-Ark.), said this wasn't so. He said some confusion had arisen over where the meeting was to have been held.

However, McCarthy yesterday summoned the subcommittee to a meeting after it had completed its regular hearing. He did not announce the purpose of the meeting, but it reportedly was to consider hearings on alleged Red infiltration of defense plants during times when the televised hearings on the Army-McCarthy dispute are in recess.

McCarthy had asked the Army's lawyer, Joseph N. Welch, and the subcommittee's special counsel, Ray H. Jenkins, to attend.

However, the meeting was called off for lack of a quorum, and Roy Cohn, McCarthy's chief counsel, said a principal in the Army-McCarthy row, said the three Democrats failed to appear.

Sen. Jackson (D-Wash.) said he was on his way to the meeting when he met Mundi, who, Jackson said, told him it had been called off. Sen. Symington (D-Mo.) said he "just didn't go." McClellan said he was detained on the Senate floor.

McClellan did say, however, he felt that under the original resolution through which the Army-McCarthy hearings were started, the investigations subcommittee could not handle other matters until its special inquiry was finished.

AFL Dock Union Drops Protest Of Election

NEW YORK (AP)—The new AFL dock union reportedly has dropped plans to protest the recent waterfront bargaining representation election and is reducing its local headquarters to a skeleton staff.

Published reports to that effect last night followed an announcement by the rival International Longshoremen's Assn. that nearly 2,000 Jersey City and Hoboken, N. J., dockers who joined the new union want to return to the old I.L.A.

The bargaining representation election of May 26 gave the old I.L.A. an edge of 319 votes, but 1,797 results in the hands of the National Labor Relations Board, which was scheduled to start considering the challenged votes today.

The AFL-ILA said Wednesday it had "startling evidence" that would upset the election results, but it apparently has decided not to represent some 25,000 longshore workers on the New York-New Jersey waterfront.

But AFL sources said last night that top officials of AFL-ILA would meet today in Washington with AFL President George Meany and discuss the dock situation.

Reports Stolen Book With Lincoln Letter

KANSAS CITY (AP)—The Frank Glenn bookshop in the Hotel Meubach building reported to police yesterday that a book containing a letter from Abraham Lincoln had been stolen.

James Parks, manager of the book store, said similar Lincoln letters have been sold from $200 to $800. The letter was from Lincoln to a young Republican telling him he could not appoint the young man to a federal office.

The missing book is about Lincoln, Parks said, and was part of the 34-volume "The American Statesmen" series. The letter was in the front of it, he added.

BPW Club Installs Its New Officers in Rainbow Ceremony

In an inspiring ceremony, women around the rainbow theme, new officers of the Sedalia Business and Professional Women's Club were installed Thursday evening at the dinner meeting of that organization at the Bothwell Hotel. Mrs. Everett White, director of District VI, was in charge.

Installed were: Mrs. J. F. Schumacher, president, taking the oath of office for her second year; Mrs. Anna Bagby, vice-president; Miss Doris Stott, second vice-president; Miss Anne Reed, secretary; Mrs. Anna Marie Raines, treasurer; Mrs. Frieda B. Nelson, parliamentarian; Miss Mary Ellen Merrill, sergeant-at-arms; Mrs. Marian Knight, chaplain; Mrs. Lily Thomas, historian; Mrs. P. V. Scotten, custodian; Mrs. Everett Stumpf, auditor.

As Mrs. White installed each officer she lighted a candle representing a color of the rainbow and told what the color symbolized and its meaning for that particular officer.

The first candle lighted was silver, in tribute to the retiring officers. The last candle was gold, of which she said that legend tells us a pot of gold will be found at the end of the rainbow and the gold candle represented the new officers, the circle of gold of the BPWC emblem, and she asked that God give to these officers the gift of understanding, vision and courage.

Mrs. White was also installed in the rainbow ceremony by Mrs. Nelson.

Following the installing of Mrs. Schumacher as president, Miss Eugenia Arnold dedicated a song to her with Miss Doris Stott as accompanist.

Decorations at the head table carried out the rainbow idea with a large arrangement of cut flowers in a blending of all colors. At each of the other tables was a centerpiece of red roses on either side of which were silhouettes cut from black paper of various ideas representing music. The attractive programs had pictures of carnations in rainbow colors on the cover.

Mrs. Schumacher announced the chairman of her committees for the new year. She also told of a letter she had received from the state president, Miss Alberta Meyers of Jefferson City, stating that Mrs. White had been appointed to serve for another year as district director of District IV.

The music committee, of which Mrs. Cecil People is chairman, presented an unusually delightful musical program. Mrs. Jack Herndon sang several selections and proved that she not only had a beautiful voice but was also talented at whistling. Parts of her last two songs were whistled, which pleased her audience. She was accompanied by Mrs. H. C. Salvester. The second part of the musical program was given by two members of the BPWC, Mrs. Donald Donath, violinist, and Miss Doris Stott, pianist, whose music is appreciated by the club members.

Delegates to the biennial national convention of the Business and Professional Women's Club, which will be held the latter part of this month in St. Louis, were elected. They are Mrs. Schumacher and Mrs. Anna Bagby, delegates, Mrs. Everett White and Miss Doris Stott, alternates.

Guests introduced were: Miss Gertrude Dunn, Miss Wanda White, Miss Barbara Schumacher, Miss Gladys McKee, Miss Clarice Mettler, Mrs. Les Payne, Miss Alice Turley, Mrs. Victor Eisenstein, Mrs. Jessie Baker, Mrs. Grace McKee, Mrs. Faye Grimme, Miss Lou Pharris and Mrs. O. R. Hamilton.

Members of the music committee, serving with Mrs. Peoples, chairman, were: Mrs. William Allen, Miss Eugenia Arnold, Miss Mildred Brackman, Mrs. Sophie Crosslin, Mrs. Donald Donath, Mrs. Duane Ewing, Mrs. Nellie Monegan, Miss Opal O'Brian, Miss Bessie Perkins, Mrs. Ruth Riley, Mrs. Lou Roese, Mrs. Leonard Williams and Mrs. E. F. Yancy.

Clarence Bradshaw, 55, Lincoln, charged with driving a car while intoxicated, was fined $75 in police court Friday by Judge R. L. Weinrich. Bradshaw, who was arrested by the State Highway Patrol, pleaded guilty to the charge.

John M. Adams, 23, of 312 West Fourth, charged with making a left turn at Third and Ohio, forfeited a $5 cash bond.

James Lewis Fowler, 24, Sedalia Air Force Base, charged with careless driving, was fined $25 in police court Friday morning. Fowler pleaded guilty to the charge. He was arrested on Main after being checked by the police from Ohio to Missouri.

Robert M. Wieggers, Kansas City, forfeited a $15 cash bond for speeding on Ohio between Sixth and Broadway.

Three overtime parking violators, who failed to appear in police court, forfeited their cash bonds of $1 each.

Mrs. Helen Maupins dismissed her petition Thursday for a divorce from Earl A. Maupins and Judge Dimmitt Hoffman ordered the case dismissed from the docket. Her attorneys were Palmer and Palmer.

An ejectment suit by Verrel and Mary E. Martin against Archie P. and Dorothy G. Lindes was dismissed Thursday at cost of the defendants. The Martins were represented by Crawford and Harlan.

A license for 3.2 beer was issued Thursday to Charles E. Ellis for the White Eagle Inn, route 3, Sedalia, to expire July 1, 1955. A similar license was issued to Raymond F. Hood for the Rock Hill Service Station, route 4, Sedalia. The license will expire Dec. 10.

Thomas L. Burlingame, Sedalia, pleaded guilty Thursday to a charge of careless and imprudent driving and was fined $10 and costs. He was stopped May 7 for passing on a hill.

Steal Garage Items And Car to Haul Them In Boonville Raid

BOONVILLE (AP)—Burglars last night not only stole a number of articles from the office at Peterson's Garage here, but also stole the transportation they used to carry away their loot.

Boonville police and the State Highway Patrol said this morning the burglars carried an adding machine, cash register and a table model radio from the office, and an electric drill, buffer and polisher from the shop to a 1953 model blue Ford sedan.

Then they opened the garage doors and drove away with the car and the rest of their loot. The car had been sold, cleaned up and was ready for delivery.

A cash register contained only a small amount of pennies.

J. G. Harlans Observe 50th Wedding Day

Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Harlan celebrated their golden wedding anniversary on May 23 at their home, one mile south of Clifton City.

A contributed dinner was served at noon to their children and grandchildren, including: Mr. and Mrs. Elmo Harlan and daughters, Kay and Trudy G. Sedalia, Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Harlan Jr., and daughters, Linda and Avelene, sons, Bobby and Dicky, and Larry, Smithson, and Mr. and Mrs. C. H. McMillin, Booneville. Also seated with the honorees was Mrs. F. J. Creagan, Sedalia, a sister of Mr. Harlan.

The centerpiece for the dining table was a three-tier wedding cake centered with a miniature bride and groom. At either side of the cake were crystal candelabra containing gold candles. The wedding cake was baked by their daughters, Mrs. C. H. McMillin, Booneville. Centerpieces for the individual guest tables were also gold candles in crystal candelabra holders with luncheon cloths of gold color. The house was decorated throughout with roses of many colors.

Mr. Harlan presented his wife with a yellow gold wedding band to replace the one she had 50 years ago. The couple received many beautiful gifts and cards from their children and friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Harlan have lived all of their married life with the exception of six years when they lived in Clifton City, on the farm where they now reside. Mr. Harlan was born and reared on this farm and has lived 70 of the 76 years of his life there.

Striped College Club To Aid Mercy Hospital

The Striped College Extension Club met at the home of Mrs. Wilber Garrett Tuesday evening, June 1. Mrs. Park Green led the devotional and roll call was answered by 20 members, with three visitors, Mrs. Elridge Miller, Mrs. Velton Dabner and Mrs. Truman Barton, present.

The club accepted the new constitution and by-laws as written by the committee appointed by the president. Each member will give 30 cents to the council to help on a county wide project to buy needed equipment for Mercy Hospital. Members also donated money or bake goods for the sick loan cupboard. The club discussed a tour of businesses in Sedalia and will go later in the year. The cooking leaders reported on outdoor cooking and the finance committee will send parcel post letters for money making projects. A news letter was read by Mrs. Riley and the meeting was closed.

Pilot Grove WPA's Cards to Honduras
Mrs. George Richerson was hostess Thursday afternoon to the members of the Women's Progressive Farmers Association of Pilot Grove. The meeting was opened with group singing, under the direction of the president, Mrs.
Herman Ries. Roll call was answered with, "What I think constitutes a good mother".

Poems about mother were read by Mrs. Raymond Reuter, Mrs.
Richerson, Mrs. Ries, Mrs. A. C.
Reuter, and Mrs. Henry Mueller.
Mrs. Arthur Schuster gave a report on the county board meeting, which was held in May. Mrs. Henry Mueller reported that old greeting cards had been mailed to a missionary in Honduras. Plans were made to hold a guest day in the near future.

A social hour followed the business meeting. Mrs. Ries, Mrs. A. C.
Mueller, Mrs. Reuter, Mrs. Phil-to the Oak Grove Extension Club at the club house Tuesday afternoon.

The project for the afternoon was picnic and outdoor cooking and this was discussed by the club with Mrs. Herbert Mewes in charge. Plans were made for a picnic dinner June 22 at the Bradford Roadside Park.

The club voted to donate to the fund for the Mercy Hospital.
Mrs. Charles Mawhorter and Mrs. Dexheimer displayed pictures and posters on a comfortable living room.

Much merriment was enjoyed as the members answered roll call with "A cooking failure I had and how I disposed of it." They decided even the best of homemakers sometimes have cooking failures.

Stover Baptist DVBS Comes to a Close

The annual Vacation Bible School held May 1-28 at the First Baptist Church, Stover, was unusually successful this year. The men of the Brotherhood, led by James Rastorfer, helped to promote the school in various ways, such as contacting a large number of pupils and parents, furnishing transportation, contacting absentees, teaching, helping with handwork. A number of the women were teachers and helpers, while others furnished cookies for refreshments.

There were 100 children enrolled, with six one-day pupils, making a total of 106 children registered for the school. With the 15 officers, teachers and helpers there were 115 enrolled and 121 registered. The average attendance for the two weeks was 94.
Those children who attended every day numbered 43.

The general officers were: Mrs.
Carl Alpers, secretary; Mrs. Clarence Edwards, pianist; and Dr.
Roy F. Williams, principal.

On Sunday evening the church auditorium was filled with pupils, parents and friends for the commencement exercise. The program consisted of the regular daily schedule of professional led by flag and Bible bearers, quiet music, call-to-worship followed by a song, school motto, song,
"Let Others See Jesus in You," prayers by the children of each department, pledges to the flags and Bible, each followed by an appropriate song. Scripture reading, anthem, "Dedication," mission offering, the character story, and very interesting and informative reviews by each department of the songs and Scriptures learned during the school.

Nun Who Once
Lied About Age Takes Own Life

BADDESLEY CLINTON, England — Sister Antony, a nun of the barefoot Order of Poor Clare, once lied about her age. As penance she soaked her sackcloth robes in kerosene and burned herself to death.

A group of sisters found the aged woman's body last Monday in an outbuilding of the secluded Roman Catholic convent here. Yesterday a coroner's court moved inside the convent walls to investigate Sister Antony's death.

Brown-clad nuns sat weeping in the improvised courtroom as their chaplain, the Rev. John Dale, told the dead sister's story.

"Two days before her death," he said, "Sister Antony came to me and said she felt very guilty.
I asked what was wrong and she told me that many years ago she had given the date of her birth on an insurance form as 1894, whereas she knew it was 1891.

"I told her it was ridiculous to worry, but she seemed to think it was a heinous crime. She told me her whole 27 years had been here one huge lie or worse."

The coroner commented: "To those who live in the outside world, this discrepancy would have been of little significance. To her in the high religious standard of her life in the convent, it was great trouble."

The verdict—suicide while of unsound mind.

Telephone Repairman Solves a Puzzler

OMAHA — A telephone repairman swiftly answered a trouble call from the John Koffend home here. The Koffends hadn't expected him so quickly and, being upstairs, didn't hear the front door bell ring nor the knocks at the back door.

How to get in? The repairman hooked his test phone onto the line and called the Koffends to let him in.

Guatemalan Critics Become Fugitives

GUATEMALA — Five more critics of President Jacobo Arbenz Guzman's regime were reported to have sought refuge in Latin-American embassies here yesterday after an official report that an antigovernment plot had been uncovered.

Rodolfo Rehwal, director of the weekly newspaper of anti-Communist students, was among them.
He headed to the Salvadorean Embassy. The total of political fugitives in foreign embassies was reckoned at 10.

Dewey's 1952 Advice to Ike On McCarthy Now Being Followed

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — It was approximately one year and a half ago that Governor Dewey, who had had more to do with nominating Eisenhower than anyone else, called on the man he had put across at Chicago and gave him some secret but sound advice.

It may be interesting to review this 18-month-old advice in view of the President's belated acceptance of it.

What Dewey told General Eisenhower was that the issue of McCarthyism would be one of the most difficult of his administration; that he had to face the problem sooner or later; and that it would be easier if he faced it sooner. Dewey told how in the 1948 campaign, when he was running for President, he had been persuaded to go to Illinois and make a speech endorsing Dwight Green for Governor and Curley Brooks for the Senate, both Chicago Tribune isolationists. This, Dewey said, had hurt him with independent voters.

So he urged Eisenhower to meet the issue of McCarthy squarely when he made his forthcoming campaign speech in Milwaukee.

Dewey, of course, understood the basic split in the Republican party better than almost anyone. Twice a candidate for President, he has emerged as leader of the nonisolationist, more progressive wing of the GOP. Dewey's talk with candidate Eisenhower went into some of these things. It lasted three hours, and at the end Ike promised to follow advice.

Dewey Is Reversed

But when national chairman Summerfield heard of this, he got together with Tom Coleman, GOP leader of Wisconsin. Sens. Homer Ferguson of Michigan and Bourke Hickenlooper of Iowa, and chartering a special airplane they caught up with Ike's special train in the midwest, got him to reverse his pledge to Dewey and agree to endorse McCarthy in Wisconsin.

But as a compromise, Ike inserted two paragraphs in the Milwaukee speech in praise of Gen. George Marshall, the man who had promoted him in one year from Lieutenant Colonel to Lieutenant General and who McCarthy had castigated as a spokesman for Communism.

It was after this that the famous McCarthy-Eisenhower talk took place, when Joe persuaded Ike to delete the two paragraphs on Marshall. Summerfield had smuggled McCarthy up the service elevator of the Pere Marquette Hotel in Peoria, so newsmen wouldn't see him, and in the interview which followed McCarthy begged, argued, implored, and finally induced Eisenhower to praise Marshall anywhere else but in Milwaukee. Eisenhower yielded.

White House aides say that today the President is a wiser and a sadder man.

Cabinet Opposes McCarthy

Significantly, Tom Dewey, the man whose advice was spurned, has come back somewhat as an adviser on McCarthyism. His right-hand man, Attorney General Brownell, has been one of the leading McCarthy appeasers. But not today.

Today, McCarthy has only two friends left in the cabinet. Postmaster General Summerfield is still friendly. Charles E. Wilson, Secretary of Defense, was semifriendly at the time he left for the Far East.

Other cabinet members are almost solid against the junior senator, but not so the senate. A roll call of the Republican sheep and goats would still find a majority lined up with the isolationist, conservative McCarthy wing of the Republican party. This is probably Eisenhower's biggest problem today.

Washington Pipeline

H. L. Hunt, the big McCarthy backer, is buying up radio-TV time for facts forum and answers for Americans in Minnesota and Illinois—two key states where McCarthy is out to unseat Paul Douglas of Illinois and Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota. Most TV and radio stations try to follow the practice of selling equal time to both candidates, but if time is purchased in advance by a so-called impartial program such as Facts Forum pretends to be, it would be difficult to dislodge the program during the election campaign. . . . breathless Bob Gros, the champion interviewer from California, came to the nation's capital on one of his periodic trips and found the interviewing business much easier. Reason: Most of the bigwigs are from California. Gros got interviews in no time with the Chief Justice, the Vice President, the Senate majority leader—all from California. He threw in President Eisenhower, not from California, for good measure.

Benson's Butter

Ezra Taft Benson's butter worries are by no means over. If anything, they've increased. Though he lowered the support price on butter from 90 per cent to 75 per cent of parity in order to curtail the Government's huge butter-buying program, today Benson is buying more butter than he did during the corresponding period last year.

This is because farmers have had to produce more milk to compensate for the price cut. By watching their breeding and feeding, they've produced more milk, and Benson has had to buy more butter.

Furthermore, butter prices have not dropped for housewives, as Benson hoped and promised. The farmer has taken a cut of 16½ cents a pound on butter, but so far the housewife has received a cut of only 11 cents, according to the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

Meanwhile, Benson's butter plans have been about as unstable as a melted butter ball. On March 15 he announced he would drastically cut the price in certain pilot cities in order to get rid of the butter surplus. But one month later, on April 26, it was announced that this price-cutting idea might be carried out, and on May 24 it was announced that the whole plan was out the window.

Note — Secretary Benson has at least one consolation. Henry Wallace, former Secretary of Agriculture and a man vigorously criticized by Republicans, recently wrote an article in the New Republic backing Benson.

A relatively new use of X-rays is the detection of foreign contamination in grain before it is milled.

The human eye is more than 100 times keener than photographic film or devices that detect heat and light.

Auto Industry May Suffer If Roads Aren't Improved

By Bruce Blossart

More and more, the motor makers and the companies which finance car purchases are showing they appreciate the vital stake they have in improvement of the nation's inadequate highway system.

They are voicing genuine concern that further growth of their markets may be handicapped by the menace of traffic congestion.

Arthur Dietz, president of Commercial Investment Trust, one of the major automobile credit firms, touched on the problem with some telling figures in a recent speech at Detroit.

About 35 per cent of American families don't own a car. Many of these, of course, are low-income families which cannot afford the cost. But millions who could pay the price apparently won't pay it because they don't think a car is worth owning.

The vast majority of carless people live in urban areas. According to Dietz, in cities of 50,000 or more, 45 per cent of the families fall into the nonowner group. Naturally, the poor also are concentrated there.

But there is no doubt in anybody's mind that the cities are bursting at the seams traffic-wise.

Even if a family with a car does manage to work free of city snarls, it finds things just about as bad on the parkways and other arteries taking traffic away from the centers.

One of Dietz' most astounding figures is this: U. S. motorists do 86 per cent of their driving on only 23 per cent of the country's highways. In other words, some 700,000 miles of the 3,000,000 miles of our road network take a terrific pounding, while all the rest of the mileage bears but 14 per cent of the load.

Obviously, the overwhelming need is for new and improved roads to ease the burden on that critical 700,000 miles.

Last year the United States spent around $5.2 billion for roads, but $2.2 billion went merely for maintenance of the existing system. As has been said again and again, this is far from enough. Our highway deficiency is estimated at $50 billion.

The experts figure that to make up this deficit and keep pace with further national development we ought to spend perhaps $11 billion a year on highways for the next 10 years. Of this annual total, $8 billion would be for new and improved roads, the rest for maintenance.

Every year that goes by without a real attack on the problem deepens the highway deficit. Certainly this will be bad for the motor makers and those allied with them. But that's not the end. It will be bad for all of us.

The cities and the arteries that feed them are choking with automobiles. One day our public authorities—up to the highest level—to go beyond trying to wish the problem away with inadequate highway outlays.

Big problems cost big money. The price of failure to lay it out can be big trouble.

Give Your Man Solitude If That's What He Wants

By Ruth Millett

There's a sad lack in most of the advice given women on how to get along with men.

Over and over they're cautioned to "understand" their men and their problems, to be companionable, to "talk things out."

But they are rarely cautioned to let a man be alone when he wants to be alone, to be silent when he obviously does not want to talk.

That reminder wasn't overlooked by Somerset Maugham, when an editor of a national magazine asked him how he would advise women to get along happily with men.

The famous novelist and playwright came out flatfootedly on the advisability giving a man a chance to be alone. His exact words were: "She should realize that she must let a man alone when he wants to be alone."

He'll Let You Know When

That ought to be simple enough rule for any wife to follow, because husbands have a way of making it quite clear when they want to be alone.

They hide behind a newspaper. They get to tinkering in their workshop. They decide to clean their guns, or straighten out a fishing-tackle box.

Or they decide something in the basement needs attention, or they need to get something out of the attic.

Any woman who ignores these "I want to be alone" signs is just asking to have her efforts at conversation met with a few absentminded "huhs" and "uh-huhs."

And any woman who goes on from there to decide her husband doesn't love her any more because he won't talk just doesn't know men very well.

All men like to get away from women now and then.

Manners Make Friends

If you take a guest to a club luncheon or dinner, stick beside the guest all the time. Don't leave the guest standing alone while you run around saying "Hello" to this person and that one. If you want to make the rounds, take your guest with you and introduce him to each person you talk with.

When you take a guest out you are just as much the host as though you had invited him to your own home.

Some persons, when they meet a visitor from another city, put him through a regular third degree. "Do you know the Smiths?" "You must know the Browns. He is very prominent." And they keep it up until they have exhausted all the impressive names they know. Don't give the impression you are trying to find out how important the visitor is by finding out whom he does or doesn't know.

The impression you make won't be too impressive.

Lucy has lost several good friends because she has the bad habit of backing out of plans at the last minute if something better comes along. By breaking engagements she was implying: "You're good enough—only if something better doesn't come along."

No friend is going to take that kind of treatment and like it.

One pound of a common clay has a total surface area equal to 100 acres of land.

Come, Come! It Isn't Nice to Point!

The World Today—

Oppenheimer as Security Risk

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — You could suit yourself about associating with a long-time Communist friend if you worked in a department store. There's no law against it.

The boss might fire you if he found out. But you'd still be free to take that chance.

Suppose, though, you were one of the great atomic scientists, working for the government, and carrying around in your head secrets involving national security. Would you then be free to associate with that long-time Communist friend?

That's one of the points in the decision which found Dr. J. Robert Oppenheimer loyal but a security risk. Oppenheimer, director of the wartime atom bomb development and a government consultant afterwards on atomic problems, was told last December he could no longer have secret information.

Oppenheimer asked for a hearing to clear his name. The five-man Atomic Energy Commission appointed a special, three-man board to consider his case. It did, for weeks. It heard 40 witnesses and read 6,000 pages of testimony and evidence. This week it gave its verdict.

It not only found him to be loyal but said he had a high degree of discretion and a great ability to keep secrets. Nevertheless, the board ruled 2-1 he should no longer be entrusted with government secrets. In short, it called him a security risk. Oppenheimer has asked the full AEC to review his case and reverse this finding.

Oppenheimer became director of the bomb project in 1942. Before then he associated with Communists for years, attended Communist meetings, married a Communist and had a brother and sister-in-law who were Communists. His wife, brother and sister-in-law said they quit the party before 1941.

Oppenheimer denied he was a member of the Communist party. The board called him a fellow traveler in the years before 1942. Then it told this story.

Haakon Chevalier, friend of Oppenheimer, and identified years ago as a Communist by a California state investigating committee, in 1943 tried to get atomic information out of Oppenheimer for the Russians. Oppenheimer turned him down cold.

Oppenheimer didn't tell government security officers about this until months later, twice lied to them.

There's a basic question affecting the country's future: How can any scientist be expected ever to give an honest judgment on anything if, as in the case of Oppenheimer, he may find his judgment used against him?

There were some other points on which the board questioned Oppenheimer's reliability as a security risk but it summed up this way:

"Beginning with the Chevalier incident, he has repeatedly exercised an arrogance of his own judgment with respect to the loyalty and reliability of other citizens to an extent which has frustrated and at times impeded the workings of the system."

Another ground on which the board considered him a security risk seems far less clear: Oppenheimer, who favored a well-balanced atomic program, joined with others in opposing an all-out effort to make the hydrogen bomb and argued against it in 1949. The board blamed him for not being "enthusiastic" about it after former President Truman made the decision early in 1950 to go ahead with the H-bomb.

STREET ROD

THE STORY: Ricky Madison's car crash has shown itself in many ways, but his pride in the "hot rod" which he is building himself has led him into trouble. As his friends with him, one of them makes a remark derisively to Sharon Bruce, Ricky's girl friend. A fight with Link Allen results.

XIII
THEY looked at each other and smiled. "You . . . uh . . . got any plans for the evening?" Ricky asked.

"Nothing special."

"Want to go roller-skating?" Sharon nodded. "My skates are home."

"We'll pick them up. How about Selmar? It's late to go to Des Moines."

"I like Selmar's rink. I wish we had one in Delville. You know good old Delville. The nothing town."

Just like that, without working at it, Sharon was his girl. Reaching home, Ricky went through the house like a whirlwind, taking the steps three at a time on the way up, coming down in three big jumps.

"Ricky!" his father yelled from the living room.

Ricky went into the living room carrying his skates, his face beet red. "Dad . . . Mom . . . I'm going skating at the Selmar rink. . . . Uh . . . I'm taking Sharon. . . . Bye. . . . I won't be late."

For a long moment Ricky's parents looked at each other. Then they began to laugh.

"Sharon's a nice girl," said Ricky's mother.

"I know," Madison said. "Sweet and pretty. Anyway, I think Ricky is suddenly going to be less of a problem. Wait and see. He'll be yelling for a chance at college."

"I'm glad he chose Sharon," Mrs. Madison said.

Mr. Madison picked up the Des Moines paper and looked at the front page. It showed the picture of a smashed car, and the headline,

TEEN-AGER KILLED.
THREE HURT IN WRECK

"This takes the fun out of it," Ricky's father said.

Ricky and Sharon skated well together. Side by side, holding hands, they matched stride for stride in an effortless, gliding circle.

When they knew the last dance was coming up Sharon sensed the change in Ricky. She could feel by his arm that he was tense.

He was looking around at other couples, and when some of them left the floor, he suddenly guided her to the sidelines where they removed their skates.

He went out as fast as he could pull her along. They heard several motors starting, and Ricky groaned. "We'll be the last ones out of here!"

Ricky had the car started in a flash. Lights were going on all around them, and cars were moving. Ricky shifted into low and shot ahead.

Cars of every description, from every corner of the lot, were leaping and bucking across the parking lot. Clouds of dust rolled up from under spinning wheels. Horns honked, tooted and blatted.

"Hang on!" he shouted. With his thumb pressing the horn he drove his coupe into the center of the pack. Dumpy shapes of other rods loomed up suddenly, then faded; the roar of straight pipes was deafening.

Ricky bore down steadily, shooting through holes between cars. In the din of motors and horns and shouts there was an occasional blurt sound as unlucky drivers tangled fenders.

Ricky was hunched over the wheel, his head forward, his eyes wide, his lips pulled back in a grin of wild excitement.

A car loaded with boys and girls tried to cut across Ricky's line of travel. His horn blatted and he drove forward, happily aggressive.

"Give, crazy . . . give!" Ricky yelled. The other car gave, and he shot past in a burst of triumphant speed. A coupe like his own appeared at his side, holding with him hub to hub. He was being chosen. He cracked the gas and shot ahead.

"Ricky!"

He didn't even hear her. The race was on. They would have to stop when they reached the highway, and the winner would be the one who backed off last.

Ricky was like one hypnotized as he hurtled through the dust toward the highway. Then, luckily, the other driver backed off. Ricky pulled his foot from the gas pedal. Second gear and quick stabs at the brake brought him sliding to a stop just as he reached the highway.

Ricky saw a small break in highway traffic and need into it. The car he cut off honked. Ricky laughed derisively, and showed the gas pedal to the floor.

Ricky laughed. "Guess we showed 'em."

SHE looked at him with widened eyes that were serious and afraid. "I told you, Ricky. I didn't like you when you tried to show off. I still don't."

"I wasn't showing off," Ricky protested, grinning.

"Ricky, listen. Slow down or let me out."

"I . . . all right. . . ." He cut his speed, but pouted like a child. A moment later a new sedan swept by them, its red tail-lights pulling away rapidly.

"Now that guy will go around bragging that his car took a rod," Ricky complained.

"Grow up, Ricky," Sharon said. Ricky's right hand dropped away from the steering wheel. He moved it in the darkness until it touched Sharon's hand. Then he paused, waiting, his heart pounding. There was a slight answering pressure.

The speedometer indicated 48, then 40.

A car swept past, honking. Ricky hardly cared.

Modern Horses Shy From Old-Time Buggy

DALLAS (AP) — Mrs. William H. Fursman's buggy was stolen, then recovered here. To police she explained yesterday why she purchased the vehicle:

"We bought the buggy for our horses, but they are scared to death of it; they're used to cars and they won't go near the buggy."

ALWAYS WANTING to do something nice for somebody, a Sedalia woman heard the Rev. A. W. Kokendoffer say there was a poem he wished he could find out about. He knew just a few lines and he had it on his mind; in fact, he wanted to use the poem in some way.

"What are the lines you know?" asked the woman. "Maybe I can find it for you."

Mr. Kokendoffer repeated the lines:

"You take the high way
"And I'll take the low,
"And in between on the mystic flats

"The rest go to and fro."

He just couldn't remember the poet's name or the rest of the poem, he told her, and he did so want it.

That would be a mighty little thing to do for him, thought the woman as she went home and looked through her books to find it. But the poem was not in any of her books. She began to ask friends and nobody seemed to know the name of the poem nor the poet. Then they would look through their books, but nobody seemed to be able to find it.

After several days someone suggested she go to the public library. She told her story and the library staff, always ready to help and very glad of an opportunity to do something for Mr. Kokendoffer, began looking. They

Three Synods Of Lutherans Into Merger

KANSAS CITY—A long-sought action to unify and strengthen Lutheranism in the Midwest through the merger of three synods of the United Lutheran Church in America into an enlarged Central States Synod will be taken during a merger convention Tuesday and Wednesday at St. Mark's Evangelical Lutheran Church.

The merger, which will bring to an end overlapping of synodical jurisdiction over 179 congregations in eight states, already has been approved by conventions of the three synods involved — the Evangelical Lutheran Synod in the Midwest, the Evangelical Lutheran Synod of Kansas and Adjacent States and the Evangelical Lutheran Synod of Nebraska.

This merger would affect three churches in this area: Trinity of Sedalia, and the Lutheran churches at Cole Camp and Sunrise Beach. The Rev. David Funk and Clinton Mueller, both of the Sedalia congregation, will be delegates from the Kansas and Adjacent States Synod to the convention.

The new synod will have 80,547 baptized members with the Midwest Synod contributing 26,236 members, Nebraska Synod 37,057 and the Kansas Synod 17,254.

Oldest of the three merging bodies is the Kansas Synod, organized Nov. 5, 1868. The Nebraska Synod was organized Sept. 1, 1871 and the Midwest Synod, July 24, 1890.

Creation of the new Central States Synod will reduce from 34 to 32 the number of constituent synods of the United Lutheran Church, which has 2,143,020 members in 44 states, seven Canadian

Sunday School Lesson Notes

AMOS HAD WORDS FOR US TO HEED
By William E. Gilroy, D. D.

The prophet of righteousness was Amos, the herdsman, or farmer, who prophesied in the kingdom of Israel in the eighth century before Christ.

That is a long time ago, but it is amazing how acutely and pointedly most of what was essential in the prophecies of Amos applies to much in the life of today, even in the democracies in which modern life is at its best.

We might easily imagine a modern farmer, thoughtful and intelligent, like farmers I have known, coming into the complex life of a modern city, or a national capital.

"A prophet in Babylon," aroused to indignation and denunciation by the dishonesty and corruption, the gambling and parasitism of those who make no real contribution to prosperity and welfare, but who live by exploiting what others do contribute.

One may easily become unduly pessimistic in considering the recent revelations of dishonesty and corruption, even in high places. Consider the immense ramifications of gambling and other evils.

Consider the widespread immoral and weak attitude of the many people in ordinary life without whose interest and support all such agencies could not function or flourish.

This in itself is cause for reflection. Such evils could not exist, or prosper, if there were not the demand. To that extent the indictment of prophets like Amos is against society as a whole.

But, remembering always the "seven thousand who have not bowed the knee to Baal," it is nevertheless somewhat appalling to realize the extent to which the evils that Amos denounced exist after nearly three thousand years in modern society.

What were these evils that so aroused the herdsman prophet? A commentary has remarked that though the Book of Amos is short, "the picture of a time of moral anarchy is complete."

The sins were the characteristic sins of a time of great outward prosperity—the wealthy extravagance and luxurious living of some, in contrast with the poverty of others.

The righteous sold for a pair of shoes, fines unjustly extorted, the oppression of the weak by the strong.

Open and shameless immorality, with the corruption of women as a deep and underlying factor in the unholy catalogue.

Yet, deeper even, and beneath it all, was the failure of religion, formal in outward observances but lacking in moral and spiritual reality.

Such a charge could be brought against the religious forces of today only with great reservations. The greatest hope for the future of society and the peace of the world is the Christian church.

But when one observes churches crowded at Easter, and many empty pews the following Sunday, it is possible to be far too complacent about the quality and effectiveness of the Christianity we profess.

An Amos may have a message for the church, as well as for evil-minded and the socially delinquent.

Baptismal Service At Trinity Church

Sunday at Trinity Lutheran Church the sacrament of baptism will be administered in the 10:45 a. m. worship service. Parents with children for baptism will present the children in this service.

The special sermon of the pastor, the Rev. David M. Funk, will be: "Preaching With Pentecostal Power," in observance of Pentecost Sunday.

Vacation Bible School is to continue all during the coming week with Children's Day services to be on June 13.

To Confirm Youths At E&R Church Sunday

The Festival of Pentecost will be observed at Immanuel Evangelical and Reformed Church Sunday morning during the church service.

Six young people will be confirmed as members of the church. They are: Doris Linhart, Marvin Maune, Gertrude Tegmeyer, Shirley Tegmeyer, Kenneth Williams, and Carl Zimmerschied. The sacrament of Holy Communion will be served.

Vacation Bible School At St. Paul's Church

Vacation Bible School will begin at St. Paul's Lutheran Church next Monday. The school will be conducted from June 7 to 18, with sessions from 9 to 11:30 a. m. Children between the ages of 4 and 14 are invited.

"What God Is Like" will be the theme of the lessons. The lessons will be uniform, thus enabling the children's departments to study the same lessons on a given day.

In addition to the Bible lessons, the Bible School will feature daily handicraft, games and singing.

GROWING SPIRITUALLY

By E. STANLEY JONES

There are many who are converted and correct in their actions, but they are not converted in their reactions. They don't lie, nor steal, nor commit adultery, nor get drunk. They are correct in their actions. But they react badly to what happens to them—they react into resentments or self-pity. Wrong actions can and do spoil us, but wrong reactions just as definitely and devastatingly spoil us. And sometimes more so. For you can make a case to justify the wrong reaction. "Why should they do that to me?" "Why should this sorrow happen to me?" "I didn't do anything to deserve this." But whether justified or unjustified, wrong reactions will leave us devastated.

OUR REACTIONS

We are looking at the things that choke or cancel out our growth. We must look at something akin to the unsundered self. The test whether the self is surrendered or unsundered is our reactions to what happens to us.

If the self is surrendered, we react on the whole with love, but when the self is unsundered, then we react in resentment, anger, self-pity, or retaliation. It is a simple but profound test. So the reactions are a revelation.

What we do to life around us is important—our actions count. We become what we do. But what life does to us is just as important, for we become our reactions. We be-

'My Church Day' Will Be Observed Sunday By First Methodists

"My Church Day" will be observed in the First Methodist Church at the 10:30 a. m. worship service Sunday. This has been a regular once-a-year feature in the church.

The "Little White Church" will be decorated and in its place in the front of the sanctuary. The chance, and junior choirs will bring their special selections, and the minister will center his message about "My Church."

Fifth St. Methodists Observing Pentecost

Pentecost Sunday will be observed at the Fifth Street Methodist Church at the worship service Sunday morning, the service inaugurating the new summertime schedule of 8:30 a. m. for the church school.

Communion will be served and a number of new members are to be received into the fellowship of the church this Sunday. The pastor, the Rev. Lee F. Soxman, will speak on the subject, "Pentecost and Unity." The choir will sing, "I Come, Oh Lord, to Thee," by Rasley.

First Methodists' School Fete Tonight

The Daily Vacation Church School of the First Methodist Church will hold its closing program and display of handicraft tonight at 7:30. The program will be presented in the sanctuary with the various departments taking part.

The handicraft will be on display in the dining room of the church. Following the program in the sanctuary, all are invited to the dining room where the display may be seen. Refreshments will be served.

Not only are the children and parents expected to be present, but also all who desire to hear their program and see their display are invited. The school has been unusually well attended, and a splendid corps of workers, numbering about 30, has given excellent and effective service. The regular class sessions closed with a picnic dinner in the church dining room at noon Friday.

Fund-Raising Campaign At St. Paul's Church

An every-member visitation program will be conducted by St. Paul's Lutheran Church next Sunday afternoon. The purpose of this visitation is to receive pledges from all members for the Christian Education building which the church plans to erect in the near future.

Thirty-four teams of solicitors will participate in this campaign. The solicitors have met twice with the special finance committee recently. They have been provided with materials, including route cards and pledge cards.

The soliciting campaign is under the direction of a special finance committee for the Educational building. The committee has prepared an informative bulletin and a brochure on the new building, which have been sent to all members.

Members of the committee are Chester Eiding chairman, James Cowan, Melvin Diekmann, R. H. Rotermund, Harold Thiele and Wilbert Tobaben.

Babe Ruth League Opens Tonight With Ceremonies, 2 Games

Short Opening Fete Before Teams Battle

The Babe Ruth League will officially open in Sedalia at 6:30 o'clock tonight with appropriate ceremonies to be followed by two games. The games and ceremony are to be held on the Liberty Park baseball diamond.

Invocation will be given by the Rev. Warren Neal.

Dan Robinson, president of Little League, Howard Durrill, Commander of Pettis County Post 16, American Legion, and Ed Kehde, president of the Babe Ruth League, will give short talks.

President Kehde will introduce the four sponsors of the teams, representatives from Phillips, 66, Taystee Baking Co., Western Auto Stores, and Brown's Supply Co. They will be followed by the introduction of Virgil Herrick, vice-president, Elmer Dillard, treasurer, Walter Jessee, commissioner, Frank Hannigan, player agent, the four team managers and players on the teams.

John Vanderkamp, president of the Sedalia Park Board, will speak briefly.

Mayor Julian H. Bagby will be called upon and give a short talk, which will be followed by the presentation of the colors and the raising of the United States Flag on the pole in centerfield.

Mayor Bagby will then go to the mound and Ed Kehde to the catchers box, after which the Mayor will throw the first ball.

Opening game will bring together: Western Auto vs Taystee Baking, at 6:30; with Browns meeting Phillips 66 in the second game at 8:15.

The following teams and names of the players are:

PHILLIPS 66—Billy Bishop, Roy Paxton, Tommy Herrick, Melvin Brown, Ronnie Dirck, Virgil Meredith, Bobby Stratton, Bill Mateja, Dick Woodsmall, Francis Rice, Jim Mateja, Jim Murray, Marshall Bryan, Duane Kelly, and Quince Jones.

1-Club Tourney And a Kids Day At Countryview

There will be a "One Club" golf tournament at the Countryview Golf Course on Sunday, it was announced by George Thomasetti, course manager. The tournament is open to all golfers, young and old, man or woman.

There will be a handicap, and every golfer will have an opportunity to win in the prize awards. There will be awards for various scores and shots.

Each golfer will choose his or her one club to be used on the tee-off, fairways and greens. After once teeing off, the same club must be used on all shots.

Thomasetti has also announced a "Kids Day." All boys and girls 10 years old up through 17 will be permitted to play the course each Monday. He hopes to have an instructor for the group for one hour each Monday, to receive instructions free.

Santee Will Try Again For Bannister's Mark At Ramsaur Field

COMPTON, Calif. (AP)—Compton's Ramsaur Field, a small, cramped and improbable site for a major event, welcomes some of the world's greatest track and field athletes tonight.

The place boasts of one attribute, if nothing else—one of the fastest racing tracks in the nation. Over it will run the mighty Wes Santee of Kansas, taking dead aim at Roger Bannister's 3:59.4 mile record in the feature event of the evening. "I'm going to try real hard," Santee promised.

Dave Douglas Leads Wind-and-Rain Round At Western Open

CINCINNATI (AP)—Even though only one round has been played it begins to look as if it will take a good rain-and-wind man to win the $15,000 Western Open Golf Tournament.

Such a person yesterday was Dave Douglas of Grossinger, N.Y., who clipped three strokes off par with a 35-33-68 to take a one-stroke lead in the first round of the 1954 tournament.

Invitation will be given by the Rev. Warren Neal.

Thompson Hits 3 Homers, Ties Batting Record

By BEN PHLEGAR
AP Sports Writer

If a hitter in a slump came to the New York Giants today for advice he probably would get pretty confused.

Hank Thompson can recommend highly 10 days of rest.

Willie Mays would prescribe going "all out" for 10 games.

Both ways have worked miracles for the Giants' stars.

Thompson's idleness wasn't by choice — he was sidelined with a banged-up knee — but obviously it did him a world of good. When he got hurt against Pittsburgh May 25 the third baseman was hitting a puny .237 with six home runs and only 11 runs batted in.

Last night in St. Louis he came back to the lineup and smashed home runs into the right field pavilion in his first three times at bat. He was walked purposely the fourth time as the crowd boomed.

He singled home a run on his fifth appearance.

He accounted for eight runs and raised his average 25 points to .262. The three homers in succession equaled the modern National League record shared by 16 other players but not duplicated since 1950.

Ten games ago Mays was hitting .260. Now he has a 10-game hitting streak worked during which he's collected 23 safeties, 12 of them for extra bases and 8 of them home runs. He hit his 15th and 16th last night as the Giants walked the Cardinals 13-8. This gave him a tie for the league lead with Hank Sauer of the Chicago Cubs.

Mays drove in 5 runs to raise his total to 42, of which 22 have come in these last 10 games.

Three other games in the National League were postponed because of rain.

In the American, the Chicago White Sox moved within a game of first-place Cleveland as they beat Boston 9-6 while the Indians were dropping a 2-1 verdict to the New York Yankees. Washington edged Detroit 4-3 and Philadelphia and Baltimore swapped seventh and eighth places again as the Athletics beat the Orioles 6-2.

The Red Sox battered Virgil Trucks and Don Johnson, both of whom had beaten them on shutouts earlier this year, for 15 hits but left 13 men on base. The hits included Ted Williams' fifth home run and Harry Agganis' fifth.

Cleveland collected 11 off Eddie Lopat and the Yankees got only four off Bob Lemon. But one of the four was in the run in the eighth inning by Joe Collins that gave the Yanks their first victory at home over Cleveland this season.

All four Washington runs were unearned as Ned Garver gave up seven hits. Two of the three Detroit tallies also were tainted by errors. Maury McDermott was the winner.

Don Larsen, who figured to be one of Baltimore's leading pitchers lost his sixth game against only two victories. Joe DeMaestri homered for Philadelphia, Bob Young for Baltimore, both with the bases empty.

Patton, Who Gave Hogan Bad Time, Aims for US Open

NEW YORK (AP)—Billy Joe Patton, the amateur who scared Ben Hogan right out of the Masters championship, will take another shot at the top-flight pro golfers Monday in the sectional qualifying rounds for the 1954 U.S. Open championship.

He is among the 1,904 golfers listed to compete for 129 available places in the field for the 1954 U.S. Open at Baltusrol, June 17-19.

It's easy to remember Patton, the happy-go-lucky lumberman from Morganton, N.C., pushed Hogan so hard in the Masters that Ben began to take chances. The result was that Hogan lost a couple of strokes, wound up in a tie with Sam Snead and lost the playoff.

Hogan, of course, will be shooting for his fifth national open title at Baltusrol. Snead, still trying for his first, is among the 32 others exempt from Monday's sectional rounds, but the often-erratic Patton will be among the 88 shooting for six qualifying places at Morganton, N.C., Monday.

Most of the touring pros who failed to earn exemption will try to qualify Monday at Cincinnati, following the Western Open. Fifteen places were allotted to the field of 88, which includes such players as Bob Toski, Johnny Palmer, Tommy Bolt, Jerry Barber, Art Wall, Fred Wampler, Peter Thomson and Robert de Vicenzo.

Will Enforce Full Set of Collegiate Rules at All-Star

CHICAGO (AP)—The complete set of collegiate rules, providing for limited substitution rather than the two-club system, will be enforced for the All-Star football game in Soldier Field Aug. 13.

Agreement on the matter was reached yesterday with Edwin J. Anderson, president of the National Football League Detroit Lions.

The agreement followed by 24 hours plans to end a stalemate between the Lions, the NFL and the sponsoring Chicago Tribune over the substitution rules by a board of arbitration.

Lause Is Favored To Take Rindone

NEW YORK (AP)—Eduardo (KO) Lause, Argentina's wild swinging Kayo artist, is a 1-4 favorite to rack up his 17th straight victory against balding Joey Rindone of Boston in a "middleweight" 10-rounder at Madison Square Garden tonight.

A powerful left hooker who guns for a knockout from the opening bell, Lause has stowed away 16 of his last 16 opponents. He won the other two by decision.

Pitt-Corning Sets Softball Scoring Mark

Meadow Gold defeated the First Baptists 2 to 1 and then the Pittsburg Corning team were on a scoring spree to down Bell Telephone 20 to 1 in Thursday night's games in the Industrial Softball League.

Pittsburg Corning, held scoreless in the first two innings, set several records with their big inning. Rolling in 16 runs, they set a mark for the most runs scored in a single frame, sending 22 to the plate. After they were put out in the third they came back to count 4 more scores in the fourth. The game was called mid-way in the fifth on the league limit rule.

Hutchinson was the winning pitcher in the first game, hurling for Meadow Gold, with Rodriguez as the loser for the First Baptists. Both the winners' runs were unearned. Barnes of Meadow Gold and Priessendorf of the Baptists were the leading hitters with 2 for 3.

Phillips hurled the Pitt-Corning victory and Young took the loss. George Thompson was top hurler of the night, getting a 2-run homer and a pair of doubles for 3 for 4. Also getting three hits for four trips were Baker and Phillips, all of the winning team.

The scores by innings and totals are:

Meadow Gold 100 010 0-2 3 2
First Baptist 100 000 0-1 5 3

Hogan Delays His Assault On Baltusrol

NEW YORK (AP)—Ben Hogan, the champion of all golf, has put off his first official crack at the heavyweight champion of golf courses, Baltusrol, fanged, Baltusrol, but the 150,000 handicap golfers across the nation still will get a chance to outscore him tomorrow.

Hogan was to test the 7,027-yard par 70 Baltusrol, which has been armed with new rough and sand traps in the third annual National Golf Day in which the handicap golfers of the country matched their scores against his.

They still will shoot their rounds but Bantam Ben will wait until June 12 before testing Baltusrol, scene of the National Open June 17-19.

"I'm too weak to do justice to the event," Hogan said yesterday. The 41-year-old shotmaker has been ill since last week with a virus attack. He was forced to withdraw from the Colonial Open Saturday and was bedded several days.

Hogan said the virus and his new club manufacturing business had interfered with his golf to the extent that he had become rusty. "I'll play in the open," he added, "but I don't see how I could get on top of my game in two weeks."

National golf day is sponsored by Life Magazine and the Professional Golfers Association. It has the sanction of the U. S. Golf Association.

Golfers pay a dollar at their individual clubs to match scores with the champion. If, with their handicap, they can beat him, they are given a medal so decaying.

Will Enforce Full Set of Collegiate Rules at All-Star

CHICAGO (AP)—The complete set of collegiate rules, providing for limited substitution rather than the two-club system, will be enforced for the All-Star football game in Soldier Field Aug. 13.

Agreement on the matter was reached yesterday with Edwin J. Anderson, president of the National Football League Detroit Lions.

The agreement followed by 24 hours plans to end a stalemate between the Lions, the NFL and the sponsoring Chicago Tribune over the substitution rules by a board of arbitration.

Risk List Up In Air After New Dispute

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Defense Department's refusal to accept terms laid down by Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) left up in the air today what is to be done with what the senator describes as a list of 133 suspected security risks in defense plants.

This is report of yesterday's session at the hearings. For today's story see page 1.

The issue has all but obscured temporarily testimony in the Senate Investigations subcommittee's televised hearings on McCarthy's row with Secretary of the Army Stevens over charges and counter-charges of "improper pressures" and "blackmail."

The hearings, with McCarthy's chief counsel, Roy M. Cohn, back in the witness chair for further cross-examination, now are in their 27th day.

McCarthy told newsmen he thought "a phone call or two could dispose" of the question of turning over the names of the workers to defense officials, saying that "there apparently isn't too much difference between us."

McCarthy has complained repeatedly that the McCarthy-Army hearings were preventing him from getting on with the exposure of what he called Communists in private defense plants doing government work. He said yesterday not all of the 133 may be Reds.

Two days ago subcommittee Democrats, joined by the Army's special counsel, Joseph N. Welch, said that if the situation was so serious he should immediately turn over his list of names to the Defense Department.

McCarthy said then he was willing to do so, but that it was useless because the department had no power to force dismissals in private plants. The department came back yesterday with a statement saying it has full power and responsibility, and can order the summary removal of any suspect working on secret projects.

Cohn testified that, on the basis of his experience, he doubts that McCarthy said he offered the names on condition that the Defense Department not disclose the identity of the persons until they had a chance "to appear under oath, either before this committee or before some loyalty board." He said this was in line with the subcommittee's rules.

Later in the day the Defense Department's position was set out in a letter signed by Asst. Secretary Fred Seaton and delivered to McCarthy.

In brief, it said the department wanted the names McCarthy had but couldn't agree to his secrecy ban because it must be free to act on them in the interest of national security "without consulting you."

Seaton's letter said, furthermore, that it may be "the Department of Defense has already begun action regarding some of the individuals."

In indicating he felt the matter could be worked out, McCarthy said he felt the handling of the 133 names, and in fact, the whole hearings on his row with the Army "may result in a workable arrangement that will end such silly bickering."

McCarthy said that while he has considered these hearings "a complete waste of time," it now looks as though it may result in "a workable arrangement for handling investigations." He added this would make it worthwhile.

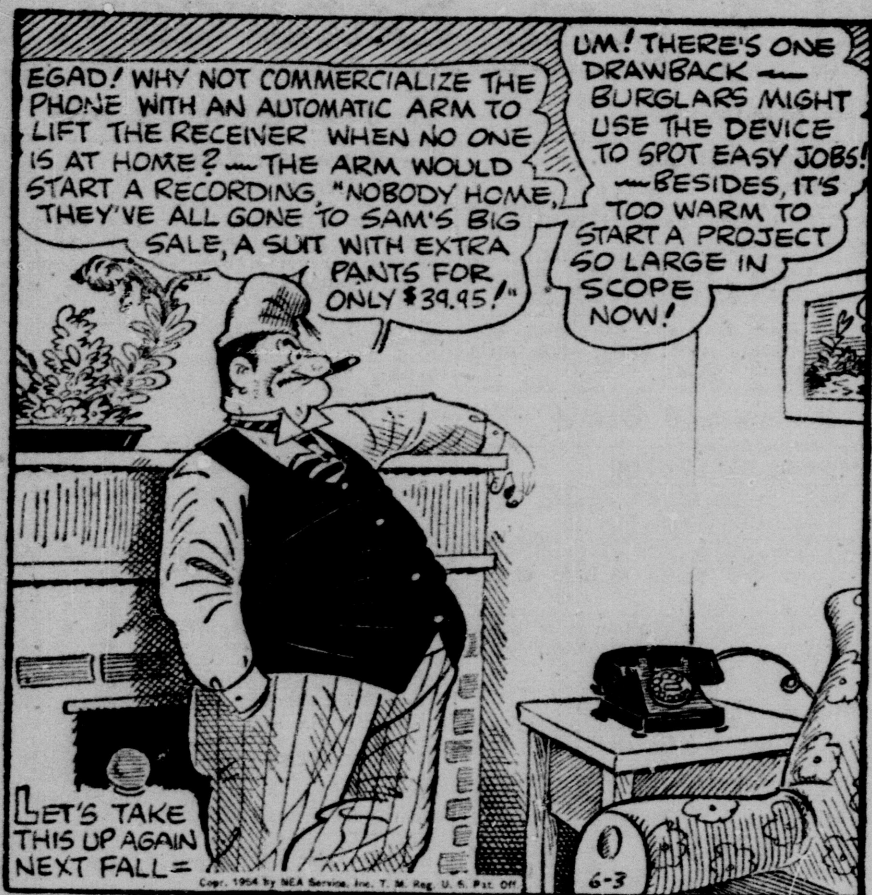

Sen. Mundt (R-S.D.), who has replaced McCarthy as chairman of the subcommittee for the duration of the hearings, said in a separate interview they may produce "a blueprint for cooperation" between Congress and the executive branch in fighting graft and subversion.

He said he foresaw as another probable result of the hearings a further easing of White House orders barring congressional investigating committees from access to certain security information.

Mundt said also that he has drafted a bill to set up a new division within the Justice Department, staffed by experts, to evaluate FBI information on federal employees and make recommendations to government agencies.

The measure, he said, would be designed to force decisive action on FBI reports naming government workers as security risks.

All the matters mentioned by Mundt have swirled through the subcommittee's probe of Army charges that McCarthy and Cohn tried by improper pressures to win favored treatment for Pvt. G. David Schine, a former unpaid subcommittee consultant.

Also under investigation are the countercharges of McCarthy and Cohn that Stevens and Army counsel John G. Adams used Schine as a "hostage" in an effort to derail a subcommittee probe of Army handling of Communists.

Cohn made a categorical denial yesterday of various points in Army testimony, but balked at putting a "false" label on Adams' testimony that he once threatened to wreck the Army. Cohn said he never made such a statement and added that Adams was mistaken but, under questioning by Sen. Jackson (D-Wash.), said he would be attributing wilfulness to Adams if he termed it false.

Jackson has been reading pertinent testimony to each principal and asking "true or false?" He says his aim is to make it clear someone is lying under oath.

Welch sought to show through his questioning of Cohn that the McCarthy subcommittee had attempted to set itself as a sort of court of appeals over federal loyalty-security boards. Cohn said the subcommittee had the duty to inquire into the handling of loyalty cases, but he declared that board members who reach their decisions fairly have nothing to fear.

In the face of the deadlock that developed between McCarthy and the Defense Department over the names of the workers in private defense plants, Sen. Jackson said the situation as McCarthy pictured it is serious and Secretary of Defense Wilson "should have an opportunity to act immediately."

Jackson, a subcommittee member, said the names could be turned over to the Senate Internal Security subcommittee and it could call them to testify in the "public exposure" McCarthy has contended is often necessary to bring about removal of security risks in defense plants.

Sen. Jenner (R-Ind.), chairman of that group, said McCarthy had made no offer to turn the information over to his subcommittee. He said he couldn't speak for the subcommittee but he presumed, "we would go into it" if time permitted.

McCarthy said yesterday he hoped within 24 hours to get permission to hold hearings nights and Saturdays "so we can put these individuals on the stand and bring out the facts."

"It is just too dangerous a situation to have existing," he said. Democrats on the subcommittee made clear, however, they would oppose any move for McCarthy to conduct hearings on communism in defense plants or anything else until completion of the probe into the charges involving him and Army officials.

While McCarthy has referred frequently during the hearings and elsewhere to "130 Communists" in defense plants, he said yesterday "the law of averages would indicate that certainly a few of them might be able to prove their innocence." He also fixed the number at 133.

At the start of the afternoon session yesterday, McCarthy said he had not been advised by the Defense Department whether it

Lie Detector Fails To Work on Indians

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—The tales about "toxic Indians" are not just legend. The vanishing American is actually poker-faced all over.

"It's an amazing thing, but it's apparently true," said Dr. H. H. Donahue, state mental health director who has conducted lie detector tests on several Indians.

The full-bloods defy all theories of emotional and galvanic response on which the polygraph (lie detector) is based.

"Every Indian tested here has shown nil," said the veteran psychiatrist. "We get no results at all. The graph just runs along with no quivers at all. We think it's because of their very stoic nature."

Dr. Donahue said mixed-bloods do have definite reactions.

would accept his information about defense plants workers under his conditions.

The Democrats immediately said they could not understand why some explanation was not forthcoming from the Pentagon and suggested that either Seaton or Wilson be called before the subcommittee to state their reasons.

Seaton's letter, delivered several hours later, said he had tried to get in touch with McCarthy Wednesday night about the names, but had been unsuccessful.

McCarthy had said he had felt the motion approved by the subcommittee Wednesday recommending that he give the names of the defense plant workers to the Defense Department was "unnecessary."

He said this was so "because I felt the Defense Department had all of this information in their files already and was not doing anything about it."

Will Return School Lot for Bid Price

HUNTINGTON, W. Va. (AP)—L. J. Meisel, attorney and City Council member, says the Cabell County School Board can have its property back if someone will pay him his $85.

He had bid that amount at tax sale on a lot, sight unseen.

He discovered later that the choice lot had a $50,000 public school building on it, the most modern in the county.

The lot, in some manner, had remained on the tax books after the school was built, and had been listed as tax-delinquent.

Brownell Sees Need to Study Anti-Red Laws

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Atty. Gen. Herbert Brownell Jr. says it would be in the best traditions of American justice if Congress used a hundredth of the time studying proposed anti-Communist laws that it is using "to study the affairs of Pvt. Schine."

It would also, he said last night, "lead to carrying out President Eisenhower's promises that the full resources of our government are to be used to destroy the Communist menace here in America."

This was the attorney general's nearest direct reference, in addressing the Los Angeles Bar Assn. to the Army-McCarthy hearings in which Pvt. G. David Schine is a key figure.

Brownell said nothing concerning a statement in Washington yesterday by Roy M. Cohn, counsel for Sen. Joseph McCarthy's investigating committee, that Brownell or his assistant "instigated" the hearings.

The attorney general told a newsman later: "I will wait until I get back to Washington and review the whole picture before I say anything."

One of the proposed laws, he said in his speech, would permit introduction of wire-tap evidence against subversives in court. Others would remove the leadership of Communist-dominated unions, he said, and help employers fire persons trained in espionage and sabotage.

He said 2,500 to 3,000 security risks have been separated from government employment since January 1953.

"In every case we follow the American system of justice," he said. "We scrupulously preserve constitutional rights."

"If it becomes necessary to cut corners, to use totalitarian methods, we'll lose the very thing we're fighting to preserve here at home. And we don't intend to cut those corners."

Employees dropped, he continued, include persons subject to blackmail, perhaps having relatives behind the Iron Curtain; "chronic drunkards who can't be trusted with secrets; just plain blabbermouths; and persons associated with Communist-front organizations."

He said, "Many of these may be loyal Americans but not the type you would want to trust in your own business—not the type to trust with sensitive positions in our government. So we call them security risks."

Officer Who Escaped Red Capture Arrives Safely at Hanoi

HANOI, Indochina (AP)—The first French officer to escape his captors at Dien Bien Phu and flee through enemy territory reached Hanoi yesterday.

Lt. Raymond Makowski, 32, said he survived on corn and rice sneaked to him by friendly natives during his long trek through rugged mountains and jungles to the little post of Nam Bac.

'Sweet Leilani' Owens To Wed AF Officer

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—"Sweet Leilani" Owens is going to marry an Air Force man.

Composer Harry Owens announced yesterday that his 19-year-old daughter, for whom he named his award-winning Hawaiian composition, is engaged to wed Air Force Pvt. Roy M. Dobric Jr., 20, of Tucson, Ariz. They met last year as students at the University of Arizona.

Owens wrote his song when Leilani was born in Honolulu.

Weatherman Will Begin Zone Forecast System

KANSAS CITY, Mo.—A zone system of issuing forecasts for Missouri will be inaugurated here June 15 by the U. S. Weather Bureau.

It is designed to pinpoint indicated conditions in five separate areas of the state.

They will be issued twice daily, at 5:15 A.M. and 5:15 P.M., covering these areas: Zone 1, Northwest; Zone 2, Northeast; Zone 3, Southwest; Zone 4, Southeast; and Zone 5, the Bootheel area of the state.

The bureau will continue the issue statewide forecasts as at present.

'China Doll' Girl Meets Classmates For First Time

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Betty Sheaf met her classmates last night for the first time when she received her high school diploma.

Betty's appearance at the nearby Stowe Township High School commencement program was the first time the 22-year-old girl had even been inside a school.

She is afflicted with a rare disease that has made her almost as brittle as a china doll.

Her family says doctors have a name for it, but the simple explanation is that her bones are unable to store sufficient calcium.

Careful as she and her family have been, she's sustained more than 100 bone fractures. Her worst mishap several years ago came when she was dropped while being carried to a taxi. That time, she suffered multiple fractures of her thigh and, since then, has had to be in a wheel chair.

Her grandmother taught her at home for the first four years of her schooling. Then the township school board arranged to have a teacher visit her twice a week.

She has learned to operate a typewriter and now hopes to do secretarial work at home.

Doctors Find Cause Of Child's Trouble, Christmas Tree Bulb

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Little Johnny Fellet's trouble began under the Christmas tree five months ago when he grabbed an apple from his sister Kathy.

Kathy grabbed it back. Johnny sucked in his breath to protest, and choked. His father patted him on the back and out popped an apple seed.

But the 10-month-old youngster couldn't stop wheezing. He developed allergies and pneumonia. His condition grew worse.

Yesterday doctors slipped a tube with a light on it into Johnny's lungs. They removed a small, cone-shaped Christmas tree ornament. Now Johnny feels fine.

ENID, Okla. (AP)—There's a junior who's a senior and a senior who's a junior in the White family.

John M. White, 58, a retired Army captain, is a junior at Phillips University here.

John Jr. is a graduating senior at the University of Oklahoma.

Admits Taking Money From Girl's Pocketbook

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP)—A young Frankfurt gallant admitted to police today he had stolen 39 marks—about $6—from his girl's friend's pocketbook.

His explanation: "I invited her to have a few drinks with me. I was broke and worried about how to pay the bill."

Says Romania Sentences Jews for Hostage Use

WASHINGTON (AP)—A top state Department official says Communist Romania has sentenced scores of Jewish citizens to long prison terms in recent months in order to use them as hostages to control Romania's 250,000 Jews.

Dep. Under Secretary of State Robert Murphy said yesterday the "widespread persecution" of Romanian Jews was a cause "for deep concern on the part of the Department of State."

Someone Makes Off With Firetruck Bell

'Playmate' Escapes With Two Hauls

OMAHA (AP)—Housewives Mrs. L. D. Newton and Mrs. Violet Madson have reported to police that a strange small boy came to their homes to play hide and seek with their sons.

In both cases, detectives said, the lad hid, sought and fled. He took $2 from the Newton house and $13 from the Madson home.

Rains Drive 2,000 Persons From Homes

COLOMBO, Ceylon (AP)—Severe monsoon rains have driven 2,000 persons from their homes in the Galle area 70 miles south of this Ceylonese capital. Floods swept away houses and uprooted rubber trees.

Lorre's Ex Sues Her Third Husband For a Divorce

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The former wife of actor Peter Lorre is suing her third husband for a divorce.

Mrs. Karen Susman, 36, filed suit yesterday against Harold S. Susman, 51, manufacturer's agent. The former Viennese actress charged cruelty, asked $877 monthly alimony, community property and the return of the name of Karen Lorre.

The Susmans married last Nov. 25 and separated last Tuesday. She divorced Lorre a year ago. Her first husband was British band leader Arthur Young.

Fireman Is Booked After Auto Escapade

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Fireman Wilbur Dunker, 41, was booked on charges of hit-run-driving, drunk driving and failure to heed a siren after he showed up at a fire during his off-duty hours.

He drove his automobile over fire lines, knocked down a traffic policeman and a fireman. A motorcycle officer overtook him 10 blocks away.

White Liquid Leaves Invisible Film; Kills Ants and Roaches

About 50 per cent of the refined copper produced in an average year in the United States is drawn into wire.

A modern insecticide written up in a national digest magazine is contained in a new product known as Roach Filmz. A white liquid, brushed on surfaces, leaves an invisible film that's effective for months. The invisible film paralyzes their legs and they die.

Housing Program Approved

Senate Okays Ike's Plan on Voice Vote; Will Liberalize Aid to Home Owners

WASHINGTON, June 3 (AP)—President Eisenhower's housing program, liberalizing aids to home owners and providing for 35,000 public housing units in each of the next four years, was approved by the Senate today on a voice vote.

Passage of the bill was hailed as a major administration victory by leaders in the Senate, particularly in view of the vote for public housing. The House version of the legislation did not follow this Eisenhower recommendation.

The measure now goes to a Senate-House conference committee, which will reconcile the many differences in the two bills.

The limited public housing authority was written into the bill on the Senate floor by a 66-16 vote. Thirty-eight Republicans and 28 Democrats supported the amendment. Two Republicans and 13 Democrats, plus Sen. Morse (Independent-Or.) opposed it.

As it came from the Senate Banking Committee, the bill contained authority to build approximately 600,000 public housing units in an unlimited period of time. This was far more than Eisenhower asked.

The Senate's Republican leader Sen. Knowland of California, succeeded in substituting the 35,000 figure for each of the next four years.

The Senate version would lower down payments and lengthen repayment periods for homes bought with government - inspired mortgages.

It continues the farm housing program and contains safeguards against "windfall" profits and other scandals which have plagued the Federal Housing Administration in recent months.

The legislation does these other things:

1. Tightens up on the home repair loan program and leaves the maximum loan at $2,500 and the terms at three years. Eisenhower asked a liberalized program.

2. Continues the Federal National Mortgage Assn. as the government's secondary market for privately held mortgages. The President has asked that this operation gradually be turned over to private control.

3. Authorizes a smog-clearing program with a five-million-dollar research fund to the government.

4. Boosts the direct loan program to veterans to 200 million dollars a year.

Down payments under the Senate bill would drop on an $8,000 new home from the present $650 to $400; on a $10,000 home, from the present $1,250 to $700; and on a $12,000 home, from $3,200 to $2,200.

Met Turns Down $100,000 Bequest From Ex-Sedalian

NEW YORK, June 3 (AP)—The Metropolitan Opera today turned down a $100,000 bequest from a wealthy fan who sought to buy for himself a measure of musical immortality.

McNair Ilgenfritz would like the money to the Met if it would produce one of two operas he wrote before he died in April, 1953. He was a wealthy Philadelphia real estate man, an amateur composer and a lifelong opera fan.

Ilgenfritz was one of three sons of the late William E. Ilgenfritz who founded the Ilgenfritz Hardware Co., at Sedalia, Mo. McNair when he was a year old, then moved on to New York and Philadelphia. His mother was a granddaughter of an early Missouri governor, Alexander McNair.

In turning down the bequest, it was learned, the Met took the position that its "artistic integrity" is not for sale. Ilgenfritz' operas—"Phedre" and "Le Passant"—just didn't measure up to its standards.

The Met's general manager, Rudolph Bing, recommended the bequest be turned down despite the opera's annual operating deficit of $400,000.

The Board of Directors said: "Under the circumstances and as a matter of policy, the bequest should not be accepted."

Roberts Takes Stand Against Puerto Ricans

Says He Saw Flashes Of Gunfire, Couldn't Recognize Persons

WASHINGTON, June 3 (AP)—Rep. Kenneth A. Roberts (D-Ala.) hobbled into federal court on crutches today to testify against four stolid Puerto Ricans charged with shooting down him and four other congressmen in the House of Representatives March 1.

Roberts told the judge and jury that he saw flashes of gunfire in the visitors' gallery but couldn't recognize the persons behind the guns.

He testified he felt a burning sensation in his left leg near the knee, cried out "I'm hit" and crawled away to be given first aid by Rep. Percy Priest (D-Tenn.).

The defendants, each charged with five counts of assault with a dangerous weapon and assault with intent to kill, are Mrs. Lolita Lebron, 34, Rafael Cancel Miranda, 42, Andres Bello Cordero and Irving Flores Rodriguez.

All Puerto Rican Nationalists from New York, they said their purpose was to demonstrate for Puerto Rican "independence." They have pleaded innocent.

Roberts, supported by aluminum crutches, appeared as the government's second witness. He was followed to the stand by Rep. Paul Shafer (R-Mich.), who was not wounded but who testified he saw the shooting.

Burdick said there were three bursts of fire.

"After the second firing I thought the thing was over so I sat down and lit a cigar," he said, adding:

"I hadn't got it quite lighted up when another firing started. I said to myself, 'this is no place to smoke a cigar!'"

Burdick said he at first sought the safety of a railing, but after a bullet "hit right by my head," he said he figured it was "just as good to be on the floor" of the House.

He said the exits were crowded by that time anyway. The "traffic on the way out was quite intense," he added.

Mrs. Catherine Schull, an attractive redhead, was the first witness. She testified she helped serve lunch to the four Puerto Ricans at Washington's Union Station shortly before the shooting.

Mrs. Schull, pointing out the four defendants who sat side by side in the courtroom, said they were dressed today exactly as they were on March 1.

Debate Thailand Request

Security Council Overrides Russian Objections 10 to 1 To Take Up Plea

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., June 3 (AP)—The U. N. Security Council overrode Russian objections 10-1 today and took up Thailand's plea for a peace patrol to check on the threat to Thailand resulting from the seven-year-old war in Indochina.

This action brought the Indochina conflict to the U. N. for the first time.

The Council acted with unusual speed at a meeting lasting only 62 minutes. The initial test came as military representatives of five powers, Australia, France, New Zealand, Britain and the United States began exploratory talks in Washington on Southeast Asian defense. In Geneva, the talks on Indochina droned on without apparent result.

Thailand's case was introduced by Pote Sarasin, Thai ambassador to Washington. He told the Council the situation in the Indochinese territories bordering Thailand had become so explosive there was a real danger of invasion of his country. He urged the Council to send a peace observation committee to Thailand as an impartial group to observe events and report to the international community.

He closed with the statement that, "This is the time for the Council to act."

Semyon K. Tsarapkin, Soviet delegate, fired the opening broadside of opposition when Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., United States delegate and Council president this month, called for the delegates to adopt an agenda listing Thailand's appeal as the subject of discussion.

Tsarapkin said it was not necessary for the Council to debate the Thai appeal. He said everyone knew it referred to the war in Indochina and the Great Powers were negotiating on that in Geneva. He said talks here would hamper the Geneva negotiations and added that the war was being brought before the U. N. because of "certain aggressive circles of the United States" are preparing for American intervention in Indochina.

His opposition indicated to some delegates the Russians likely would veto any resolution to send a peace observation group to Thailand. In that case, Thailand could appeal to the General Assembly, where there is no veto.

After Tsarapkin spoke, Lodge called for a veto. Delegates of the United States, Britain, France, Nationalist China, Denmark, Colombia, Brazil, Turkey, Lebanon and New Zealand voted to take up the plea. Tsarapkin held up his hand in lone opposition. He did not even bother to vote later when a motion was made by Charles Malik of Lebanon for the Council to adjourn indefinitely so the delegates could get instructions from home on the next step.

While no date was fixed for the next meeting on the Thai plea, some delegates said they believed the Council might meet next week for more speeches. No on seemed ready to introduce a formal resolution until the delegates see what happens at the Geneva conference.

The only change in location through this 50 years was in 1929 when they moved from 206 to 208 South Ohio. James Quinn who was owner and manager at the time of the sale, has been assisted for a number of years by his sister, Miss Johanna Quinn.

Mr. Quinn has no immediate plans for the future. He says that he would just like to retire and "take life easy."

WARRENSBURG, Mo., June 3 (AP)—A 10-ton tractor disappeared early today.

The machine is valued at nearly $100,000 and is owned by the B and G. Construction Co., contractor for a new city sewer system being installed here.

A man living in the neighborhood said he saw a large red truck backed to the curb near where the tractor stood at 5 a.m.

by civic groups and local communities.

The task of choosing a permanent site for the academy was assigned to Virgil M. Hancher, president of the University of Iowa, Brig. Gen. Charles A. Lindbergh, Merrill Meigs, vice president of the Hearst Corp.; Gen. Carl A. Spaatz, first chief of staff of the Air Force, and Lt. Gen. Hubert R. Harmond, special assistant to the chief of staff for Air Force Academy matters.

Legislation authorizing the academy was signed by President Eisenhower on April 1.

The law authorizing establishment of the Air Academy provided that the site selection board should make a unanimous recommendation or narrow the choice to three locations.

Had the board been able to agree on one site, the law said the Air Force secretary must decide on that recommended location.

Talbot, after handing out his written announcement, read it before television and newsreel cameras and added that "we will have engineers, construction men, real estate men, examine these sites very carefully."

The secretary also said he thinks "we will come up with an answer fairly soon, certainly within a month."

To build the academy, Congress authorized spending 125 million dollars and the air force plans to immediately choose a firm of architects to start designing it.

The money allowance for the first year's work is 26 million.

Out of that 26 million, 11 million is set aside for operations at a temporary site, to be chosen shortly. The temporary installation is expected to be located as near as possible to the permanent one. Plans call for the first class of about 300 cadets to enter at the temporary academy on July 1, 1955.

The permanent construction job is expected to take about five years, but the Air Force estimates it will be far enough along for cadets to use it by the summer of 1957.

Air Force plans call for an academy area of about 15,000 acres with classrooms, dormitories, a flying field and all facilities needed to support the institution. While only Colorado Springs has that much land in the tracts immediately in consideration, officials said more could be had by purchase or condemnation at the other two locations.

The Alton, Ill., site is about 10 miles up the Mississippi River from Alton and adjacent to the village of Elsie. Alton is 25 miles from downtown St. Louis and 277 miles from Chicago. The site has an area of 7,500 acres bounded on the north by State Highway No. 100, on the south by the Mississippi River and on the west by the Grafton and Jerseyville Highway. About one fourth of the land is under crops.

The Lake Geneva site is in the southeastern part of Wisconsin near the center of the southern shore of Lake Geneva. It is about 50 miles south of Milwaukee, 60 miles southeast of Madison, Wis., and 73 miles northwest of Chicago.

Gives Ground on Issue Of Policing Armistice

GENEVA, June 3 (AP)—Red China's Chou En-lai gave ground slightly today on the disputed question of policing an armistice for Indochina. But he remained firm on other Western demands for settling the war.

Chou relaxes the Communist position at the Indochina conference on the work of a proposed neutral nations supervisory commission to the point of permitting it to deal with subjects other than importation of troops and arms to Indochina. Yesterday the Commission had insisted the commission could not mix in other and more important policing duties.

But the Chinese foreign minister rejected outright any supervisory role for the United Nations of the armistice under discussion here.

He also refused categorically to give Laos and Cambodia any different status in the armistice than that of Viet Nam.

Laos and Cambodia have threatened to walk out of the conference if they are to be treated as nations torn of civil war. They have insisted that the only resistance to the present governments is that of Vietnamese "invaders" who have occupied certain portions of their countries. They insist the "invaders" should be expelled.

They have been supported by the West in this position. Laos, Cambodia and Viet Nam make up the Associated States of Indochina. The main warfare has been in Viet Nam.

In his small concession on policing the armistice, Chou did not give up the idea of "mixed commissions" of Vietnamese and French Vietnamese representatives which have drawn heavy criticism from the West. He said, however, that the proposed neutral nations commission should operate parallel with the mixed commissions and deal with the same subjects.

The Communists have insisted that this commission should have Communist members. The United States, France and Britain have objected to the inclusion of Communist nations on the ground that it could not possibly be neutral.

The military representatives, who were ordered to get together to talk over the boundaries of possible assembly zones for troops in a peaceful Indochina, met four hours today in their second session. They agreed to meet again tomorrow. They have made little progress on their assigned task. One source said they put their maps on the table today but did not unfold them.

WASHINGTON, June 3 (AP)—Sen. Kefauver (D-Tenn.) demanded today that the Eisenhower administration tell the public about its policy toward the Indochina war as five-power military talks opened here on Southeast Asia.

Representatives of Britain, France, Australia, New Zealand and the United States convened at the Pentagon for military strategy discussions which "he said would be of value" in further conversations which may take place later or a wider basis."

This pointed up a preconference statement by Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson, who said he thought the problems involved were more political than military.

As the military chiefs and their scores of assistants met behind closed doors in the defense building across the Potomac, Sen. Kefauver told the Senate in a prepared speech that he understands a "concrete policy" has been decided on but that "administration leaders are fearful of the possible reaction on the part of Congress and the people."

"We are told that some leaders in the administration are fearful of the effects of more active participation by the United States in the war in Indochina on Republican election prospects," he said, adding:

"Anything as serious as war has no business in politics. The decisions before this country are far too grave for them to wait on elections."

President Eisenhower told his news conference yesterday that no decision has been reached on the question of active intervention in Red-threatened Indochina.

Kefauver said he has heard that orders have been drawn to reimburse "controls on industry and commodities" and that the "office of Defense Mobilization is holding up the printing of 200 million ration books because of fear or public reaction."

If this is true, the senator said, the people should be told.

show about the roses. So much rain probably will ruin the roses, they thought. But those who go will find roses in abundance.

This is the sixth annual show presented by the Sedalia Rose Society, affiliated with the American Rose Society, and the weather usually doesn't cooperate very well with the rose growers. That doesn't stop them, though. They always have roses, even when they think they won't have up to almost the last minute.

Edward Brummett is general chairman of the show, with Oscar DeWolf and Perry Strole as co-chairmen.

Entries must be according to the schedule rules and will be received by the entry committee from 8 to 11 a.m. Friday.

Blue, red and yellow ribbons will be awarded in all classes where quality warrants and gold, silver and bronze medal certificates, from the American Rose Society, will be awarded the first, second and third best hybrid tea roses of the show.

The "Perpetual Trophies" will be awarded to those members of the Sedalia Rose Society winning the greatest number of points in Division I horticultural class, and Division II, arrangements.

Secrecy Causes Deadlock

McCarthy Would Give Names of Security Risks to Pentagon, Must Be Kept Secret

WASHINGTON, June 3 (AP)—Sen. McCarthy and the Defense Department got into a deadlock tonight on the question of keeping secret the names of 133 suspected security risks who, the senator says, are working in U. S. defense plants.

McCarthy, under prodding from Democrats and Army counsel, announced he was offering the names to the Pentagon—but on condition they be kept secret for the time being.

The Defense Department replied that it wanted the names—but with no secrecy strings attached. It told the Wisconsin senator in a letter that it "must be free to act with respect to any individuals on the list without consulting you."

McCarthy then told newsmen he would not hand over the names until the Pentagon promises not to make them public. It is "a firm and basic" policy of his investigating subcommittee, he said, not to publicize names until the persons have had a chance to testify before the subcommittee.

He expressed confidence that he and Asst. Secretary of Defense Fred Seaton, who wrote him today's letter, will be able to work out some arrangement "that will allow us to turn the names over."

He fixed the exact number of names on his list as 133. At the McCarthy-Army hearings they have been variously referred to as Communists, suspected subversives or security risks. In response to reporters' question tonight, however, McCarthy said some of them may be innocent.

"The law of averages would indicate," he said, "that some of them would be able to prove they were good loyal Americans although the evidence on the face of it seemed pretty bad."

He said he would not object to the Pentagon suspending suspects provided their names were not disclosed pending public hearings.

The Pentagon letter said, however, that a secrecy pledge was impossible because it may be that "the Department of Defense has already begun action regarding some of the individuals."

The deadlock came after two days of jockeying at the Army-McCarthy hearings. McCarthy and aides have frequently mentioned the list, and yesterday Democrats on the hearing committee and Army Counsel Joseph N. Welch burst forth with demands that McCarthy turn them over to the Defense Department. A formal "recommendation" to that effect was passed.

McCarthy said the department was welcome to his information, but he said that was not the way to get the suspects out of sensitive defense work. The right way, he held, was to hold public hearings and expose them.

Before Seaton's letter was made public today, Democrats on the McCarthy-Army hearing panel charged defense chiefs with incredible slowness, if not laxity, in failing to snap up McCarthy's offer of the names as soon as it was made.

Arriving Chairman Mundt (R-SD) came up with a different explanation. Maybe, he said, the Pentagon was abiding by the old warning to "beware of Greeks bringing gifts."

This unusual new situation developed after Sen. Dirksen (R-Ill.) (Please turn to Page 6, Column 2)

Boonslick Library Notes—

General Dean's Story, Book On McCarthy Are New Additions

"General Dean's Story" as told to William L. Worden is a fascinating narrative of America's most famous prisoner in the Korean War. General Dean remembers a lot more than just what happened from October 1947 when he was sent to Korea as military governor until he got back to America from long prison camp. He hates Colonel Kim but he also tries to understand him. One gets a feeling for Korean culture through the little portraits of farmers, guards, small boys, jeep drivers.

General Dean seems concerned about establishing one point. He did not willfully surrender. After thirty-five days of wandering behind enemy lines, trying to get back to the United Nations' lines, he was betrayed and overpowered. In the earlier part of the war, when he was with Lieutenant Tabor, he writes "I know that we had no food and that we did keep going, but the rest is just a haze of weariness, trying to keep to my feet and failing without help, and everlastingly stumbling from one trail to another. Tabor must have kept us going by will power because I don't remember having any."

"The Execution of Private Slovik" by Hule is the story of one only American soldier since 1864 shot for desertion. This book is not clear about the bigger issues of the case but it does present a picture of the man and what happened to him. This book has no literary pretensions, it is simple in style and very readable. It does not presume to settle any international issues but it is an excellent personal account and for that reason alone, well worth reading.

"McCarthy and his Enemies" by Buckley and Bozell is a gift book at Boonville. It presents McCarthy and his investigation as a powerful force in the preservation of our freedom and shows that our governmental pattern today endangers our way of life. On the other hand Elmer Davis' book "But We Were Born Free" scores McCarthy and his followers as one of the greatest dangers to our liberty and democracy.

These and other books on today's happenings are available from the Boonslick Regional Library.

The Bookmobile route schedule for the week is as follows: Tuesday, June 1: Lamine 9:00-9:45; Willing Workers Community House 10:00-10:30; Blackwater 11:00-1:30; Lawler's Filling Station 1:45-2:15; Cotton Patch 2:30-3:00; C. O. Simpson's 3:15-3:45.

Wednesday, June 2: Prairie Grove 9:15-9:45; Bahner 10:00-10:30; Bunker Hill Crossroads 10:45-11:15; Clyde Brownfield's 11:30-12:00.

Friday, June 4: Clear Creek 8:30-9:15; Pilot Grove 9:30-11:45; Harlan Brownfield's 12:30-1:05; Martinville 1:15-1:45; Clear Spring 2:00-2:30; Prairie Lick 2:45-3:15.

Monday, June 7: W. C. Mullett's 9:30-10:00; Bellair 10:10-10:40; Speed 10:50-11:20; Herbert Hein's 11:30-12:00; Lone Elm Store 1:00-1:45; Buncheon 2:00-4:00.

Out of town guests were: Mrs. George Reckard, grandmother of the bride, Weeping Water, Neb., Mr. and Mrs. George White, also grandparents of the bride, Sabetha, Kan., Mr. and Mrs. Roy Bindrum and daughters, Janice, Linda, Joyce, Brenda and Jean Marie, Lincoln, Neb., Mr. and Mrs. Les Fleming Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Davidson, Kansas City.

The Houstonia Woman's Club met with Mrs. J. C. Higgins Wednesday night for the annual mother and daughter program.

There were nineteen club members present and the following guests: Mrs. Kenneth Ryan, Mrs. Adams of Colorado, Mrs. Ocie Wicker, Mrs. C. L. Tevebaugh, Mrs. Charles Keller, Mrs. Jim Higgins, Betty Jane Wark, Virginia Wark, Patty Wicker, Judy Blackburn, Joe Blackburn, Margaret Scott, Janey Morris, Margaret Stokhurst, Ramey Wicker.

Reports were made of the recent convention at Sweet Springs. The program was led by Mrs. C. F. Wicker, welcome by Mrs. Jack Morris, and response by Judy Blackburn. Readings were given by Susanna Smiley, Marilyn Smiley, Ramey Wicker, Mrs. Jack Morris and Mrs. Wicker reading. Those taking part were Mrs. James Blackburn, Ramey Wicker, Susanna Smiley, Joe Blackburn and Janey Morris. A romance was given by Mrs. Wicker with music by Mrs. Wallace Smiley, Marilyn and Susanna Smiley and Miss Mary E. Tevebaugh.

The house was lovely with beautiful floral decorations.

Refreshments were served from the dining room table and it was beautiful with candlelight and flowers.

The Wesleyan Service Guild of the Fifth Street Methodist Church met at the home of Mrs. W. Z. Heady, May 26, with Mrs. Don McQueen as assisting hostess.

Mrs. H. Handley, president, presided over the meeting. Reports were given on the district meeting at Clinton May 2.

Mrs. Phil Burford gave the devotional, followed by the pledge service by Miss Lucile Harvey.

Mrs. L. A. Pharris was presented a life membership and pin by Mrs. Brooke Wade.

The next meeting will be the annual picnic and will be held June 26.

The Women's Club of the BPOE Elks, No. 125, held their annual May banquet Thursday evening in the lodge hall. A turkey dinner was served.

Mrs. C. E. Carroll, president, gave the welcoming address. Mrs. John Devine, chaplain, led in the invocation. Forrest Yoder, exalted ruler, gave a short address. Mrs. Edith Ross played several piano selections during the evening.

Mrs. Charles Thompson served as chairman of the dining room with Mrs. Robert Moore serving as co-chairman. The kitchen committee was Mrs. C. F. Fisher, assisted by Mrs. E. W. Brown.

Dr. Kirkpatrick Back With Army Discharge

Dr. Chester A. Kirkpatrick, son of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Kirkpatrick, Sedalia, has arrived here after receiving his discharge from the Army. While stationed at Ft. Sam Houston, Tex., he served as an optometrist in the eye clinic at Brooke Army Hospital. His wife, the former Dorothy Towner, and four-month-old son, Glen Ray, accompanied him on the trip from San Antonio, where they made their home during the last 18 months.

Dr. Kirkpatrick plans to reopen his office here in the near future, having had one at 420 1/2 South Ohio before entering the service. He received his degree from Northern Illinois College of Optometry in 1930.

James Weimholt Lands At San Diego, Calif.

James E. Weimholt, sonarman third class, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul E. Weimholt, 103 East 28th, Sedalia, was aboard the USS Kidd which arrived recently at San Diego, Calif., after seven months in the Far East with the UN Peace Patrol.

Three ships, completing their third tour of duty with UN forces, have been patrolling the waters around Korea, Japan and Formosa. They have visited the ports of Yokosuka, Sasebo, Kobe and Kure, Japan; Hong Kong, British Crown Colony; Kaohsiung, Formosa; Okinawa; Midway Island; and Pearl Harbor.

The destroyers are due for an overhaul period at the Long Beach Naval Shipyard beginning about June 5th.

Don Carver Returns Home from Germany

Don Carver, 914 East 11th, returned home this week after spending 15 months at Dillingen, Germany, on duty as a corporal in the U.S. Army. He landed at New York and went to Ft. Knox, Ky., where he received his discharge from service, having completed a two year enlistment. Now he expects to resume his work as a fireman for the Missouri Public Service Co., at its power plant here.

Loyal Sewing Circle With Mrs. Blethroe

Loyal Sewing Club met Wednesday with Mrs. Charles Blethroe, 604 North Prospect. A contributive dinner was served at noon. Mrs. Earl Grady, president, presided. Following the business meeting, games were played.

The next meeting will be held June 23 at the home of Mrs. Perry Reed, La Monte.

Mrs. Garansson Heads Life Underwriters

Mrs. Marjorie Garansson, Prudential special agent, was elected president of the Sedalia Life Underwriters Association on Friday at the same meeting at which Abe Silverman and Virgil Ragar were presented the National Quality Award of 1954 from the National Association of Life Underwriters.

Guest speaker was Sam Pearson, state president of the Missouri Life Underwriters Association, coming from Kansas City where he is general agent for Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Co. He was introduced by Jack Crawford.

Other officers elected at Friday's meeting, held at the Bothwell Hotel, were James Harms, Prudential, as vice-president, and Tom Steidle, Metropolitan, as secretary - treasurer. President Everett Lansdowne presided and called on A. H. Wilkes to present the slate of nominees prepared by the nominating committee.

It was the sixth time that Silverman has received the quality award and the ninth time for Ragar.

In his address, Pearson discussed two phases of life underwriting — the Life Underwriters Association and Holiday Death Toll Up to 132 In 1st 30 Hrs.

By The Associated Press

The first 30 hours of the long Memorial Day weekend took 132 lives, including 111 in traffic accidents, 10 by drowning and 11 from various other causes.

That count, which started at 6 p.m. Saturday, was up through 10 p.m. Saturday.

The National Safety Council has estimated that 340 persons may lose their lives in traffic accidents in the holiday period which began at 6 p.m. Friday and will end at midnight Monday.

As the toll rose steadily like ascending mercury in a thermometer, Ned H. Dearborn, council president, commented:

"The holiday traffic death toll is running tragically close to schedule. If the present rate is not cut down, the toll by midnight Monday will have reached or even passed the grim total of 340."

"This does not have to happen." Most of the traffic deaths occurred singly as millions of motorists ganged up on the roads.

Traffic deaths have been on a downward trend this year compared with the number last year. During the first four months of 1954 they averaged 88 per day.

That statistic will afford a basis for judging driver performance during the current holiday period when the final figures have been counted.

There will be another basis for comparison. An Associated Press survey of accidental deaths in a period just as long as the current holiday period—78 hours—showed 243 traffic deaths, 50 drownings and 66 in the miscellaneous category. The total was 359. The survey covered the May 14-17 weekend.

The record over all Memorial Day toll was 571. It was established during a four-day holiday period in 1950.

Deaths by states—with traffic, drowning and miscellaneous listed in that order—were:

Kansas 0 0 1, Missouri 1 1 0, Oklahoma 3 0 0.

Guatemala's No. 1 Red Relieved of His Job

GUATEMALA, May 29 (P)—Jose Manuel Fortuny, No. 1 Communist in Guatemala, has been relieved of his job as party secretary-general. A party announcement today gave him health as the reason. One published report said he was going to Moscow for a rest. The announcement immediately gave rise to speculation that a split has developed in the ranks of the party, or that President Jacobo Arbenz had forced the action to avoid criticism from abroad of Communist influence on the Guatemalan government. Fortuny is reportedly one of the President's close advisers.

Fortuny was a leader of the National Democratic Front which helps formulate government policy. His removal as secretary general takes him out of the Democratic Front as well.

Ralph Walker Sails Soon for Far East

CAMP PENDLETON, Calif.—Marine Pfc. Ralph H. Walker, son of Mrs. Estelle H. Walker, 1217 West Fourth, and husband of the former Miss Barbara J. Cummins, 640 East Broadway, all of Sedalia, is scheduled to sail soon for duty in the Far East after spending four weeks in the staging regiment at this Marine Corps base.

The staging regiment handles the last minute details in getting men ready for foreign duty. A Marine's few weeks in staging are filled with clothing and equipment inspections, refresher courses on weapons, and physical conditioning.

State PEO Installs New Officers Friday

WARRENSBURG, Mo. (P)—The state chapter of the P.E.O. sisters today installed these new officers yesterday at the close of a three-day convention:

Mrs. Frank Platt, Mexico, president; Mrs. E. F. Chilcote of Columbia and Mrs. Carl Brown of New Bloomfield, vice presidents; Mrs. Buford C. Taylor, Nevada, organizer; Mrs. S. FOREIGN WIVES HONORED AT TEA—Miss Opal O'Brian, Pettis County home agent, left, and Mrs. William J. Lamm, chairman of the home and community committee, Pettis County Farm Bureau, second from left, serve at a tea held Friday afternoon in honor of six foreign wives. The honorees are, left to right: Mrs. Ninette Gehle, Belgium; Mrs. Dolph Chatman, England; Mrs. Joseph Robles, England; Mrs. Muriel Garner, New Zealand; Mrs. Perry Linder, England; and Mrs. Frank Emmos, Hawaii. The children are, left to right: Jacqueline and Gary Gehle; Ricky (the little fellow) and Dolores Robles; Peggy Garner; and Perry Linder Jr. (Staff Photo.)

Farm Bureau H&C Committee Holds a Tea Honoring Foreign Born Women In Move to Be Better Acquainted

The first meeting promoted by the H. and C. committee of the Pettis County Farm Bureau, for farm women to become better acquainted and to welcome overseas wives, was held Friday afternoon at the First Methodist Church in the form of a tea honoring the foreign-born women.

An interesting program was presented in the lecture room of the church prior to the tea, with Mrs. William J. Lamm presiding. The foreign born women were presented, with each telling something about her country. They were introduced by Mrs. Dolph Chatman from England and Mrs. Joseph Robles, England; Mrs. Roger J. Garner, New Zealand; Mrs. Frank Emmos, Hawaii; Mrs. Perry Linder, England.

Mrs. Chatman, the first speaker, is the president of the newly organized Overseas Club. She told of England and said that her town was an industrial one and that she had worked in a dirty factory there about 13 years. She is one of nine children and has a twin brother. Mrs. Chatman said her Christian parents had given her good spiritual training which she found had been so helpful in her later life.

She said travel was very cheap in England and the country, being small, is easy to get around. The American boys in service there liked this, as do American tourists, for it is easy to cross the channel for travel in Europe. She told, too, of the Royal family, and how the British love them.

Mrs. Garner, from New Zealand, told of her country which she said has about two million people, and no unemployment. There are jobs in New Zealand for about 150,000 people. It is an agricultural country with lots of sheep. The main meat served is lamb and mutton and much of the industry is with wool. There is a free school system for children from 2½ years old through college. However, education is not compulsory until 7 years of age. There are no night clubs in New Zealand and these people live a pretty quiet life, she said.

There are about six denominations there and she did not know that there were so many denominations until she came to America. Lots of the service men returned to New Zealand to live after the war, some had married New Zealand girls and some just liked the country.

Mrs. Frank Emmos, from Hawaii, who is Japanese but was born in Hawaii and is married to a Porto Rican, spoke excellent English and was immediately questioned about it. She replied that she had been educated in American schools. She said that tourists were the third industry in Hawaii and the climate there is summer all the time with always flowers.

She had a hard time getting used to winter here and was very thrilled when she first saw snow when she lived in Oklahoma. She thought it was rain until her husband told her and then she said outdoors, "crazy like a kid," she said.

However, she didn't think so much of it later when they started to St. Louis and she was caught in a terrible snowstorm in Joplin. Mrs. Linder told of the small town she came from in England. Everybody gets out of school about 14 and most of them go to work, so that was what she did, too, and she liked working. She thought after she was married, she would work and be independent, but her husband didn't see it that way. He didn't want her to work.

She had never been bit by a mosquito until she came to America, she said, and she thought they were roaches until she felt some and then up came the big bump on her arm.

WARSAW MAN PROMOTED—Navy Cdr. Frank M. Blanchard, left, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul M. Blanchard, Warsaw, and husband of the former Miss Eleanor Meuth, Skidmore, Tex., is congratulated by Rear Admiral Thomas H. Robbins, Jr., USN, president of the U.S. Naval War College, Newport, R.I., after promotion to his rank of commander.

Foamglass, Which Is Made In Sedalia, Used To Insulate Sphere to Test Atomic Engine

Insulating the huge sphere to be used by the Atomic Energy Commission and General Electric Co. for testing an atomic submarine engine presented some unique problems, but they were settled by the use of Foamglass, which is made by the Pittsburgh-Corning Corp. plant in Sedalia.

The sphere, 26 times larger than any other previously built, is 225 feet in diameter and has a content of 5½ million cubic feet. It is designed to minimize escape of fissionable material during the atomic engine tests near Schenectady, N. Y.

In effect, the sphere is the largest "thermos bottle" ever built. It is airtight and insulated with "Foamglas", a cellular glass material developed by the Pittsburgh-Corning Corporation. More than 138,000 square feet of this insulation—in blocks two inches thick, 12 inches wide and 18 inches long—were applied to the steel walls of the giant sphere.

One reason the sphere had to be insulated was the need for maintaining a constant barometric pressure inside. Any sudden change in interior pressure, caused by fluctuation of outside temperature, could exert hazardous stresses on the steel sphere, which is big enough to house an 18-story building.

In addition, the tremendous heating and cooling loads in the sphere require effective insulation to control heat losses in cold weather and heat gains in the summer. In selecting two inches of "Foamglas" insulation, the designers calculated this would be effective in helping to maintain interior temperatures at a comfortable level the year around.

Because of these critical factors, the insulation was recognized: A break anywhere on the exterior coating would expose the insulation to snow, ice and rain. If the insulation were not moisture-proof, the resulting moisture would greatly reduce its insulating efficiency and by capillary action spread throughout the insulation. The combination of any single break and capillary action would, in the case of ordinary insulation, soon reduce its efficiency and cause condensation on the interior surfaces of the sphere. The result would be water dripping on personnel and equipment.

To solve these problems, the designers selected cellular glass insulating blocks, which are composed of millions of tiny glass-enclosed air cells. Moisture cannot penetrate or spread in these blocks. The material is made by mixing pulverized glass with chemicals and baking the compound in ovens.

In addition to forming an effective vapor-barrier and helping to maintain desired temperatures within the sphere, the cellular glass blocks were easy to install. Their rigidity and light weight facilitated handling and they could be shaped when necessary on the job site with simple tools. Storage on the project location was no problem because the cellular glass insulation is not affected by the weather.

The blocks were impaled on steel pins 2½ inches long welded to the side of the sphere on nine-inch centers. Two pins support each block. After each block was impaled, metal clips were attached to the pins and recessed about 1-16th of an inch into the insulation. The protruding end of the pin then was clipped off.

Before the blocks were laid, the skin of the sphere was sprayed with asphalt cutback. Another coat of the same material was sprayed on the blocks after they were installed. This was topped by glass fabric membrane and a finish coat of asphalt cutback.

Special scaffolding, supported by permanent welded steel lugs on the sphere wall, was used to install the insulation.

Arland Joy and Family Visit Sedalia Relatives

Arland Joy, USN, stationed at Norfolk, Va., with his wife, the former Juana Means, and two sons, Mikie and Johnny, are visiting in Sedalia with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Joy, 2200 West Broadway, and the parents of his wife, Mr. and Mrs. John Means. Joy will go back to Norfolk, but will return to Sedalia June 15.

SEDALIAN WITH MISSOURIANS ON SHIP—When Vice Admiral Thomas S. Combs, USN, of Lamar, Mo., took over new duties in April as Commander U.S. Sixth Fleet, he moved into the flag cabin of the heavy cruiser flagship USS Newport News. He did not know it at the time, but he was coming aboard a ship loaded to the gunwales with men from Missouri.

Both the commanding officer, Captain E. K. Van Swearingen, and the executive officer, Commander W. A. Overton, hail from Kansas City, Mo. The Newport News engineering officer, Lt. Cdr. C. L. Corbus, is from Joplin. Two junior officers, a chief petty officer, and 24 enlisted men of various ratings are also from the "Show-Me" State.

They will cruise together to various ports in the Mediterranean as part of the "friendly fleet" operating in waters bordering the Southern European countries allied to the United States.

In the course of their Mediterranean cruise, these men from Missouri can expect to visit ports in France, Italy, Greece, Turkey, Spain and North Africa. Past experience indicates that all countries will give these Sixth Fleet sailors a warm welcome.

WORLD'S LARGEST THERMOS BOTTLE is this huge sphere for testing atomic submarine engines. It was insulated with more than 138,000 square feet of cellular glass insulation blocks. Sphere is designed to minimize escape of fissionable material during atomic engine tests.

PROBLEMS OF INSULATING the atomic engine test sphere were simplified by using cellular glass insulation blocks which were impaled on steel pins welded to the sphere's shell.

Houstonia Club Has Mother-Daughter Program by Candlelight

The Houstonia MYF held its monthly party at Elaine Lowery's Thursday night, May 27. There were six members and 10 adults present. After the business meeting, Betty Jane Walk had charge of the devotional. Those taking part were Elaine Lowery, Freddie Werneke and Virginia Walk. Refreshments were served.

Two Sedalians are candidates for degrees from Central College, Fayette, and will be recognized at commencement exercises there. They are Norman A. Witthaus and Dorothy Jean Anderson.

Pope Pius X Canonized as Saint

VATICAN CITY (P)—Pope Pius X, who died only 40 years ago, was canonized a saint of the Roman Catholic Church today in a majestic ceremony in St. Peter's Square.

An estimated half million people stood in hushed silence under a blazing sun as Pope Pius XII pronounced the ancient Latin formula that elevated Giuseppe Sarto, Pius X, to the church's highest honor. The Pope made the announcement at 6:45 p.m. (11:45 a.m. CST).

Ambulances carried away several who fainted in the crush. It was Rome's hottest day of the year, with temperatures near 90.

Language Detour

HONG KONG (P)—When 73-year-old Yugoslav priest, Francis Alexis Benigar, was expelled from China recently he presented a problem to American priest Paul J. Duchesne, who met him at the Hong Kong border.

There was a bit of difficulty about Father Benigar's ancient passport. He went into China 30 years ago and has been there ever since. His Yugoslav passport, issued by King Alexander I (1921-34), was so out-of-date and battered the custom guards were suspicious. Suspicion was allayed after lingual detours.

Father Benigar speaks seven languages—Yugoslav, Russian, Polish, German, Chinese, Mandarin, Italian and Latin. Father Duchesne speaks four, English, Chinese, French, Cantonese (which has no similarity to Chinese Mandarin) and Latin.

Hope Dale School Closing Exercises

The Hope Dale R-7 School held its closing exercises, Wednesday evening, May 26. Miss Eileen Kendrick is the teacher.

The program consisted of declamatory contests with Alice Seymour, Keith Allen, Lloyd Williams, Evelyn Rice, Cathy Bailey, Alfred Seymour, and Nora Lee Rice participating.

A silver dollar was awarded by the teacher to Keith Allen, who was winner of the contest.

A contributed dinner was served before the program by the patrons of the district.

Monday, May 24 was the last day of school and the children and Miss Kendrick enjoyed a picnic dinner at the school.

Tipton C. of C. Has Discussion About Parking

TIPTON—Tony Lademann, president of the Tipton Chamber of Commerce, presided at a called meeting of the organization Monday evening at the City Hall.

The chamber club voted to join the Better Business Bureau of St. Louis. There was discussion of an information bulletin for Tipton and the parking problem on the business streets was also discussed, the chamber empowering the chair to appoint a committee to see what might be done in easing the parking situation.

Mr. Stratman spoke on the flow of boxes that Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Conn had set in front of their home and business and how attractive they were, adding that it would be nice if others would carry out this same procedure which would assist in beautifying business streets.

The Chamber of Commerce also endorsed the Annual Experiment Station Field Days at the University of Missouri, College of Agriculture, Fayette, Mo., June 1, 2 and 3, sponsored locally by the Tipton Farmers Bank.

Two Teachers Are Hired, 2 Get Leaves

The Sedalia Board of Education hired two teachers Friday night at a special meeting at which more general discussion was had about securing a site in the west end of town for a possible new school building.

Another teacher, A. L. Wilson, who has a fifth grade class at Horace Mann, was granted a sabbatical leave of absence to graduate work.

Hired were his wife, Mrs. Jane Wilson, who resigned last month as art teacher at Whittier before her husband decided to do his graduate work and who will teach an elementary class, and Mrs. Wilma Rhoads, who taught music in elementary and high school classes at Smithton for three years. Mrs. Rhoads will teach an elementary class.

Missouri Bar District Meeting Here Saturday

District 3 of the Missouri Bar will have its annual regional meeting Saturday afternoon at the Pettis County courthouse, with an evening session at the Bothwell Hotel. The district is comprised of Pettis, Carroll, Cass, Clay, Jackson, Johnson, Lafayette, Ray and Saline.

Registration will begin at 1 p.m., and at 2 p.m. Harold Bamburg, president of the Sedalia Bar Association, will give the address of welcome. The response will be made by Judge Phil H. Cook, of the Fifteenth Judicial Circuit.

The first of two address will be given by David P. Dabbs, Kansas City, who will speak on "Preparation of suits for trial." Orville W. Richardson, St. Louis, will give the second address, "Use of Demonstrative Evidence." A question and answer period will be held after each address. Social hour will be held at 5:15 p.m. on the mezzanine floor of the Bothwell Hotel.

The evening session, in the Banquet Room of the hotel, will include music, presentation of guests and an address, "The Public's View," by Charles E. Whitcomb, Kansas City, president of the Missouri Bar.

The afternoon session will be presided over by Alan F. Wherritt, Liberty, and the evening session by Frank W. Hayes, both members of the Board of Governors of District 3.

Members of District 3, members in other districts and local bar executives throughout the state and their ladies are invited to attend.

Army Smashes Shakedown In Philippines

WASHINGTON, June 3 (AP)—The Army disclosed today it has uncovered an American-led shakedown ring in the Philippines involving millions of dollars in claims for damage from World War II operations in the islands.

The investigation has shown, the Army said, that at least one, and possibly many of the claims were fraudulent.

The Army's Provost Marshal Office reported two former American soldiers are being sought by the FBI as leaders of the ring, which preyed on Filipinos.

The two, whose names are being withheld until they are located, are believed to be in the United States now, an Army spokesman said. The Army said the case involves forged Army documents, impersonations of U.S. officials and the possible swindling of many Filipinos.

The Army got its first clue to the confidence ring last March in a letter purported to have been signed by two American officials in the Philippines. The letter appeared to be on Army stationery and was addressed to a Filipino, informing him that his claim for more than a million dollars for having supplied food and materials to guerrillas fighting the Japanese had been approved.

Subsequently, the two fugitive Americans contacted the Filipino and sought money from him on grounds that they could speed payment of the claim. Instead of paying the Filipino became suspicious and sent the letter to Washington.

Army investigators went to Manila and quickly determined that the letter was a forgery. Working with the Manila police, the Army investigators were able to identify one of the imposters as an American, honorable discharged in Manila after World War II. Later his companion, the second man had taken his discharge in the Philippines.

Further investigations put officials on the trail of other Filipino victims, but the search for all cases has been hampered, the Army said, by the reluctance of victims to come forward for fear they themselves might be implicated in possibly fraudulent activities.

FAS Considers Oppenheimer Was Treated Unfairly

WASHINGTON, June 3 (AP)—The Federation of American Scientists said tonight it considered that Dr. J. Robert Oppenheimer was treated unfairly by the majority of a special board of inquiry which declared him a security risk.

The famous physicist and atomic pioneer, head of the Institute for Advanced Study at Princeton, N. J., was held to be a "loyal citizen," but the board's 2-1 verdict was that he be barred from the government's atomic secrets.

"We believe the majority findings to be unfair to Oppenheimer," the federation said in a public statement.

"But more than that, we believe them to illustrate the dangers and the bitter fruits of a security system which is now motivated more by the risks of disclosure of information."

The federation is a national organization of scientists and engineers formed in 1946 to act on public issues in its field.

It called on the Atomic Energy Commission to review the findings of the special board and "do justice to Oppenheimer as an individual."

KC Woman President Of National Council Of Presbyterian Women

LAFAYETTE, Ind., June 3 (AP)—Mrs. J. R. Salsburg of Kansas City Mo., was elected president today at a quadrennial session of the National Council of Presbyterian Women.

She will serve in 1954-58 as head of the council of half a million women in 7,500 local societies in the Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A. She also is president of the Missouri synodical and a member of Second Church in Kansas City.

Mrs. Salsburg succeeds Mrs. W. Verne Buchanan of New Philadelphia, Ohio.

DC3 Lands Safely After Asking Preparations For Emergency Landing

WICHITA, Kan., June 3 (AP)—An Ozark Air Lines DC3 landed safely at Wichita Municipal Airport tonight after radioing ahead asking preparations for an emergency landing.

Airline officials said the plane reported failure of its hydraulic system, operating landing gear, flaps and brakes.

During the approach, the crew reportedly operated manual pumps to build up hydraulic pressure, and made a normal landing.

The three crew members and one passenger on the flight from St. Louis were reported unhurt.

Cough Causes Auto Wreck and Injuries

ST. LOUIS, June 3 (AP)—Four-month-old Donald Matthews suffered a choking spell today while in a moving car and set off a chain of mishaps.

Mrs. Ivie Lou Matthews, 20, of suburban Hazelwood, the mother, fainted and lost control of the car. It crashed into a utility pole.

The boy suffered a serious head injury.

Mrs. Matthews suffered minor injuries, and her mother, Mrs. Ethel Mae Corzine, 47, an ankle fracture and facial cuts.

OBITUARIES

Mrs. Cecil R. Neumann Services
Funeral rites for Mrs. Cecil R. Neumann, Oak Lawn, Ill., who died at Antigo, Wis., following an automobile accident, were held at 2 p.m. Thursday at the Gillespie Funeral Home, the Rev. Ralph E. Hurd, pastor of the Epworth Methodist Church, officiating.

Mrs. F. O. Withers and Mrs. E. L. Ringen sang "Lead Me Gently Home, Father," "The Old Rugged Cross" and "Be Still, My Soul."

Burial was in Crown Hill Cemetery.

Secrecy

broke a six-week deadlock and read into the hearing record the first of the monitored telephone calls which have been stirring up controversy ever since the televised hearings began.

Dirksen read aloud the transcripts of three calls between Secretary of the Army Stevens and himself—all relating to the Stevens-McCarthy clash over Brig. Gen. McCarthy's meeting with Stevens.

McCarthy's meeting with Stevens, interpreted as a surrender by the Army secretary.

In one of these calls Stevens declared he was being "crucified" by McCarthy and told Dirksen he might have to take "drastic" action as a result. In bitter terms, the Army secretary said the law cause he could not explain publicly just what happened the press already was picturing him a "yellow-belly."

Several other senators said they proposed to read their talks with Stevens into the record, too. But McCarthy stood firm on his refusal to let his own monitored calls be used unless every such call bearing on the controversy is admitted into evidence.

And McCarthy's chief counsel, Roy M. Cohn, testified under cross-examination that the Army side is trying to withhold some calls.

The Army position was that calls between officials of the executive branch cannot be disclosed, because of presidential order.

McCarthy called the investigation subcommittee—the regular group, that is, rather than the special body investigating his fight with the Army—into session soon after the afternoon's televised hearing recessed. He asked Special Counsel Ray Jenkins and the Army's official lawyer, Joseph N. Welch, to attend.

The purpose reportedly was to consider hearings on alleged Communist infiltration in defense plants when the Army hearings are not running.

The meeting was called off, however, for lack of a quorum.

Three Vietnam Battalions Wipe Out Vietnamese
HANOI, Indochina, June 3 (AP)—Three regular Vietnam battalions numbering about 2,100 wiped out 200 Vietnamese and mauled 100 more today in a sudden outburst of activity on the central Annam plateau.

The Communist-led rebel forces struck three companies of Vietnamese national army troops at Cung Son, 25 miles west of Thanh Hoa, 220 miles northeast of Saigon and far south of the Red River Delta area.

Lashing monsoon rains slowed up French air attacks on Vietnamese troops gathering on the delta's western rim. The rains also bogged down the rebels who are pushing eastward from smash-dien Bien Phu. The French reported the most advanced rebel forces were still 50 miles from the delta's westernmost defenses.

In Saigon, acting Viet Nam Premier Phan Huy Quat indicated the United States and the British Commonwealth will be invited to join France in training the Vietnamese national army. He emphasized he does not expect direct American or other foreign intervention in Indochina.

French Cabinet Reports Commander in Chief To Meet Indochina Crisis

PARIS, June 3 (AP)—The French Cabinet announced today the appointment of Gen. Paul Ely, chief of staff of the armed forces, to replace Gen. Henri Navarre as commander in chief to meet the crisis in Indochina.

There was no immediate announcement of what new position had been chosen for Navarre. He has been under some sharp criticism here and abroad for his handling of the defenses of fallen Dien Bien Phu.

Ely, 56, had just returned from a fact-finding mission to Indochina where the Communist-led Vietnamese captured Dien Bien Phu in their first all-out frontal assault of the 7½ years of war in Indochina.

Ely also had made frequent trips to Washington, where he got pledges from the U. S. Defense Department of stepped-up military aid to fight the Indochina rebels.

School Bonus Veto Does Not Affect Vocational Funds

JEFFERSON CITY, June 3 (AP)—Gov. Donnelly told Missouri's congressional delegation today his veto of a $94 million school bonus appropriation last year had no effect on vocational education funds.

He sent a letter to Republican Rep. Jeffrey P. Hillelson of Independence, challenging a statement by Hillelson as quoted May 27 in the Kansas City Star. Copies of the letter were sent to the other members of the delegation.

Hillelson was quoted as saying school funds in Missouri were "critically short" as a result of the governor's veto.

"If any shortage exists in vocational education funds in Missouri," the governor replied, "no action of mine is responsible therefor, and your statement incorrectly indicates."

Donnelly said he had approved all the vocational training appropriations made by the legislature, including $1,254,000 for vocational education, $400,000 for training disabled persons, $176,000 for veterans' training and all federal aid funds available.

He said the $94 million "bonus" allotment would have had no effect on vocational funds.

"The statement that schools in Missouri are 'critically short' of funds as the result of the veto of the bonus appropriation is entirely erroneous," Donnelly wrote. "This is evident from the salary increase recently given teachers in many Missouri towns and cities."

Will Fire Any Employ Giving Unauthorized Data to Sen. McCarthy

WASHINGTON, June 3 (AP)—Foreign Aid Director Harold Stassen said today he would fire any employer who gives unauthorized information to Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.).

"Any employee of the Foreign Operations Administration who violated the laws and executive regulations," he said, "would not be an employee very long. He would be discharged."

Stassen spoke out at a news conference.

Democrats Introduce Legislation to Broaden Jobless Compensation

WASHINGTON, June 3 (AP)—Democratic Congress members today introduced legislation, quickly backed by both the AFL and CIO, to broaden unemployment compensation by up to two billion dollars a year.

The plan would require states to jump the amount and duration of jobless pay benefits provided under their present laws, with the threat that if the states balked, the federal government would do so.

Up to now, Congress has left the fixing of unemployment compensation levels up to the states. Under the plan advanced by nine Democratic senators and 81 House members the federal government would set new higher standards and take over when any state failed to meet those standards.

Throw Barbed Wire Around Gov't House

GEORGETOWN, British Guiana, June 3 (AP)—Troops of the Argyl and Sutherland Highlanders threw barbed wire barricades around Government House today. Unconfirmed reports said scores of ringleaders in a current anti-British wave of unrest are to be arrested.

Approves Bond Issue For School Building

HARRISONVILLE, Mo., June 3 (AP)—A $130,000 bond issue for a new elementary school building was approved by a vote of 572 to 32 today in a special election.

The new building will have six classrooms, a health room and a kindergarten room.

Franklin D. Rayhill, San Francisco, Calif., Attorney for the estate is Henry C. Salveter.

Belgian Plane Fired Upon By Russian-Made MIG

VIENNA, Austria, June 3 (AP)—A Belgian plane loaded with purebred pigs was fired upon today over Yugoslavia near the Hungarian frontier. Crewmen said a Soviet-made MIG raked the transport with cannon fire, killing the pilot and wounding the pilot and mechanic.

The surviving crewman said the MIG bearing red star insignia dived suddenly out of the clouds on the Sabena Airlines DC3 and tried to force the two-engine transport toward the Hungarian frontier.

Their account said the MIG flew by the transport three times and then opened fire when the Belgian pilot ignored the MIG's maneuvering.

The cannon fire killed Joseph Clauwaets, 42, the radio operator, wounded Arsene Devreese, the pilot, and Victor Sluyts, the mechanic. All are Belgians.

Devreese, with two shell fragments in his shoulder, was unable to carry on. Douglas Wilson, the British copilot, turned the plane around and made an emergency landing at Graz, Austria.

There was no official announcement tagging the nationality of the attacking plane. A British Embassy statement in Austria referred to an "unidentified plane." Sabena Airlines said in a statement the attack was by "two fighter planes of unknown nationality" but the surviving crewman at Graz discounted the idea that more than one plane was involved.

First 'Leg' of Pony Express Run Will Begin Today at St. Joseph

MARYSVILLE, Kan., June 3 (AP)—A horseman will ride out of St. Joseph, Mo., at 3 a. m. tomorrow on the first "leg" of a Pony Express run.

The run is being reenacted to call attention to Marysville's centennial celebration Aug. 16-19.

It won't be quite the same as that first trip of April 3, 1860, however. That time the mail bags left St. Joseph in late afternoon and reached Marysville at 11 p.m.

Tomorrow horses and riders will be changed often, with stops in all towns on the route, and the schedule calls for an overnight stop at Sabetha. The run will be completed Saturday.

Towns on the itinerary include Elwood, Wathena, Troy, Highland, Hiawatha, Fairview, Sabetha, Oneida, Seneca, Baileyville, Axtell, Beattie and Home City.

The only original Pony Express relay station still standing in the nation is at Hollenberg, 15 miles west of Marysville.

Union Officers Plead Innocent to Indictments

ST. LOUIS, June 3 (AP)—Louis Berry and John Coleman, union officers, pleaded innocent today to federal grand jury indictments and their trial dates were set.

Berra, assistant to the head of AFL Teamsters Local 688, will go on trial Sept. 27 on a charge of obstructing justice by ordering a contractor to destroy records of an alleged $5,000 kickback Berra is accused of receiving on a painting job at the Labor Health Institute building here.

Coleman, business agent of the AFL Cement Finishers Local 527, is charged with violation of the Taft-Hartley law by accepting gifts of $10,703 in cash and labor from a cement contractor. His trial was set for Oct. 4.

Fulton Tries Again Today Get School Levy

FULTON, June 3 (AP)—Fulton will try for the fourth time tomorrow to get the approval of a school levy.

Three rejections of levy proposals by the voters since April 6 have set the school district back about two months in the signing of new teachers for the next school year.

The levy before the voters is $2.20 per $100 valuation, plus a 59-cent levy for bond retirement—the same as turned down by the voters May 14. The two earlier proposals were for $3.00.

The $2.70 proposal is 45 cents above the 1952-53 levy.

Convention Told Over 20 Million Baptist in World

ST. LOUIS, June 3 (AP)—The Southern Baptist convention was told today there are now at least 20½ million Baptists in the world.

The Rev. and Mrs. T. W. Croxton and the Rev. and Mrs. W. P. Arnold of Sedalia, are attending the convention.

Joel Sorenson of Stockholm, Sweden, youth secretary of the Baptist World Alliance, said this represents more than three times the number of Baptists when the alliance was formed 49 years ago.

Citing increases in membership of Baptist churches in Germany and Brazil, Sorenson said "There are many weaknesses in our fellowships, but we have the right to a humble joy over the progress made."

The Rev. Dr. James W. Storer, pastor of the First Baptist Church at Tulsa, Okla., was re-elected president of the convention for his second one-year term.

The Rev. Dr. Homer Lindsey of Jacksonville, Fla., was elected 1st vice president and the Rev. Dr. Oliver R. Shields of St. Louis second vice president. The Rev. Dr. James W. Merrioth of Atlanta, Ga., was named senior secretary and the Rev. Dr. Joe W. Burton of Nashville, Tenn., junior secretary.

Donnelly Asks For Cooperation In Defense Test

JEFFERSON CITY, June 3 (AP)—Gov. Donnelly today asked the personnel of all state departments and agencies to cooperate in the nationwide civil defense test to be held June 14 and 15.

"Since this civil defense test is of importance to the defense and welfare of the nation and of Missouri," he wrote in his letter to departmental heads, "it is suggested that every department and agency of the state government cooperate fully with the Missouri civil defense agency to the end that this test exercise may be as extensive and as successful as possible."

A spokesman for the state civil defense agency, on the fifth floor of the new, 13-story state office building, said he knew if no department plans for evacuating all the state buildings are inside the city.

And, he said, some state officials say they are all for civil defense operations. But when the time comes to cooperate in a test alert they claim they have to keep right on with their regular jobs and can't stop, he said.

He said the employees of the state civil defense agency would have to remain on the job, because all the communications equipment for the state's defense network is situated there.

Ex-Cowboy Movie Actor Wins GOP Nomination For Nevada Official

RENO, Nev., June 3 (AP)—Rex Bell, square-jawed ex-cowboy movie actor and husband of Clara Bow—the movie "It" girl of the late '20s—is working on a new career—politics.

Still a striking figure in wide-brimmed hat and Western attire, the 49-year-old Bell won the Republican nomination for lieutenant governor of Nevada over two opponents in Tuesday's primary election. He got 11,700 votes.

Bell, who runs a successful Las Vegas Western rodeo, is just about as tall as Clara Bow in 1931, just about at the height of her career. They came to Nevada and bought 600,000 acres of sage rangeland which they sold last year.

The Bells have two children, Rex Anthony, 19, a premedical student at Notre Dame, and George Robert, 16, a student at Esplanade, Calif., Naval and Military Academy.

The beautiful red-haired Clara, now 49, has spent much time in recent years at a Culver City, Calif., sanatorium because of ill health. She's there now.

Many political experts think Bell has a good chance to defeat his Democratic opponent—Las Vegas labor leader James Sallor Rysa—on the November election, despite a 3-2 Democratic edge in voter registrations.

City Workhouse Quarry Going Out of Business

ST. LOUIS, June 3 (AP)—The old St. Louis city workhouse quarry, where prisoners have toiled on the rock pile for about half a century, is going out of business.

Mrs. Edward C. Brungard, city director of public welfare, announced today the quarry will be closed because the operation has proved too costly and such work is "no longer regarded by experts as a proper corrective rehabilitation program."

Burglar Uses Iron Of Robbery Victim

TOKYO (AP)—The burglar who broke into the apartment of Miss Sueko Onoda, a 35-year-old geisha, took $18 and then demanded her electric iron.

He plugged in the iron, pressed his coat and trousers and walked out.

Mercy Flight Fails to Save Life of Girl, 2

ST. LOUIS (AP)—A mercy flight from Cape Girardeau failed to save the life of a two-year-old girl, who had suffered a brain injury in a fall down three steps at her southeast Missouri home.

Little Maxine Stovall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Max Stovall of Cape Girardeau, died soon after reaching Missouri Baptist Hospital here yesterday.

A surgeon was waiting at the hospital when the parents arrived with Maxine but condition made immediate surgery inadvisable. She died within an hour.

John Goodwin, a neighbor of the family in Cape Girardeau, piloted the parents and child on the 30-minute flight. After landing at Parks Metropolitan Airport, the family was given an escort to the hospital by East St. Louis, Ill. and St. Louis police.

Mrs. Stovall said Maxine and her 8-year-old sister, Nancy, fell down three steps at their back door on Tuesday. They scrambled up, Maxine had only a bruise and a bump, her mother said.

The child, who had been under treatment for a virus infection, seemed all right, her mother said. She couldn't go to sleep until early the next morning.

Mrs. Stovall said the child, usually a late sleeper, slept on yesterday morning and, when they could not awaken her, a physician ordered Maxine to St. Louis for surgery.

The surgeon explained that Maxine had suffered a brain hemorrhage in the fall.

Five Reds Scheduled To Be Sentenced Today File for a New Trial

ST. LOUIS, June 3 (AP)—Five communists scheduled to be sentenced tomorrow for conspiring to advocate the forcible overthrow of the government filed motions today for an arrest of judgment, a judgment of acquittal and for a new trial.

The five, convicted last Friday by a federal court jury, are William Sentner, James F. Forest, and his wife, Dorothy Rose Forest, Margaret A. Murphy, and Robert Manewitz.

The motions will be argued tomorrow before federal district judge Roy W. Harper, who is scheduled to impose sentence.

Each of the defendants, now free under bail, faces a possible maximum penalty of five years in prison and a $10,000 fine.

Senate Recesses Because No Senator Wants Speak

WASHINGTON, June 3 (AP)—For the first time in many years no senator wanted to talk today and so the Senate recessed for nearly an hour.

Pending was an over-all housing bill and Chairman Capehart, (R-Ind.) of the Banking Committee, scheduled to make the opening speech on it, was absent.

Sen. Bush (R-Conn), acting as majority leader, asked if any senator wanted to make a speech. When no one did, Bush asked and got a recess for some 56 minutes, until Capehart was due to return.

Chicago Negro Killed In Wreck Near Kennett

KENNETT, Mo., June 3 (AP)—Mrs. Lillie Mae Phillips, 19, a Negro of Chicago, was killed today when the car she was driving went out of control on a country road and overturned four times.

Four children riding in the car with her escaped with cuts and bruises in the accident about 15 miles south of here. Mrs. Phillips was visiting relatives in southeast Missouri.

ITU Headquarters Say President Relected

INDIANAPOLIS, June 3 (AP)—Headquarters of the International Typographical Union said today that President Woodruff Randolph has been re-elected by a 500-vote margin over George Bante of Chicago.

Mr. Hurd, ITU secretary treasurer, said the official count would not be completed until noon tomorrow but the union's election board "has determined that Mr. Randolph's majority will be approximately 500 votes."

Mo. Schools Can Prepare For Negroes

JEFFERSON CITY, June 3 (AP)—Circuit Judge Sam C. Blair said today he thought Missouri's school segregation laws were repealed automatically by the recent U. S. Supreme Court decision knocking out "separate but equal" schools for negroes.

Blair said any Missouri school district is now free to go ahead and integrate its programs for Negro and white students. His comments were made during a panel discussion before the west central division of the Missouri Association for Social Welfare.

The Cole County circuit judge has dealt with the segregation problem before. It was decision in his court which opened the door of the University of Missouri to Negro students who can't get the courses they want at Lincoln University for Negroes.

Blair noted that Atty. Gen. John M. Dalton has been asked to interpret the U. S. Supreme Court decision as it affects Missouri.

"I don't know how he will rule," Blair said. "But I know how I would rule."

"In my opinion the Missouri constitutional and statutory provisions setting up segregation because of race, color, or creed, under the decision of the high court, school districts are legally within their rights to go ahead and integrate now."

He cautioned that any local school board which tried to retain some form of segregation by gerrymandering school districts to exclude Negroes from certain areas probably would run the risk of being sued, and having the gerrymander ruled invalid.

He also noted that details of the Supreme Court's final decree will not be known until after hearings are held next fall. Any district plan set up now, he said, might have to be modified later in the light of the final decree.

Hubert Wheeler, state commissioner of education, also was on the panel. He repeated his earlier statement that the state department would be ready to cooperate in carrying out any integration plan for white and Negro schools. But he said it is basically a local problem for local school boards to work out.

Baltimore Will Open School Doors On Nonsegregated Basis

BALTIMORE, June 3 (AP)—The Board of School Commissioners in Baltimore voted unanimously today to open the city's schools on a nonsegregated basis next September.

The vote came on a resolution introduced by board member John W. Sherwood. The resolution was in line with the U. S. Supreme Court decision banning separate educational facilities for Negroes in American public schools.

The Department of Education was asked to prepare material outlining practical steps to be taken to accomplish the end of school segregation in Baltimore.
